
Contents

Preface	x
Acknowledgments	xviii
Contributors	xix
1. The Literary Context: Goethe as Source and Catalyst	1
Harry Seelig
Folk Song Origins—Goethe’s Contribution—
Rationalism and Romanticism—Goethe and
Schubert—Romantic Poetry and Romantic Lieder—Romanticism’s Aftermath—Naturalism and Dénouement—Appendix: Lyric Poets and Lied Composers
2. Franz Schubert: The Lied Transformed	35
Susan Youens
Traits of Schubertian Song—Schubert and Poetry—
Schubert Revising Schubert—Schubert and the “Miracle Year” of 1815—From 1817 to
1822—Schubert in 1822—Between Die schöne Müllerin
(1823) and Winterreise (1827)—Schubert and the Song Cycle
3. Robert Schumann: The Poet Sings	92
Rufus Hallmark
Early Career and the Liederjahr —Poets and Poetry—
The Character of Schumann’s Songs: Individual Lieder and Cycles—Interpretations—Songs for Multiple Solo Voices—Late Songs
4. Johannes Brahms: Volkslied/Kunstlied	142
Virginia Hancock
Folk Song Settings—Folklike (volkstümlich) Songs—
Hybrid Songs—Art Songs (Kunstlieder)—Postlude:
The Vier ernste Gesänge Op. 121

5. Crosscurrents in Song: Six Distinctive Voices 178
Jürgen Thym
 The Storyteller: Carl Loewe (1796–1869)—Making Her Voice Heard: Fanny Hensel (1805–47)—Cosmopolitan Infusions: Franz Liszt (1811–86)—In Search of “Chasteness”: Robert Franz (1815–92)—The Gift of Songs: Clara Schumann (1819–96)—Reluctant Wagnerian: Peter Cornelius (1824–74)
6. Hugo Wolf: Subjectivity in the Fin-de-Siècle Lied 239
Lawrence Kramer
 The Oedipal Regime—The Lucky Third Son—The Scrutinizing Mode: Confession and Recognition—Oedipal Careers: The Songbooks—Sampling Oedipus: Four Songs
7. Gustav Mahler: Romantic Culmination 273
Stephen Hefling (after the original essay by Christopher Lewis)
 School and Apprentice Years—First Published Lieder—Lieder eines fahrenden Gesellen—Songs from Des Knaben Wunderhorn—Rückert Lieder, Kindertotenlieder, and Farewell to the Wunderhorn
8. Richard Strauss: A Lifetime of Lied Composition 332
Barbara A. Petersen
 Poets and Poetry—Traditional Beginnings: The Early Songs—Selected Songs: The 1880s—An Important Opus: Vier Lieder Op. 27—Increasingly Varied Lieder: 1895–1906—The Lied in Transition—Orchestral Songs and Orchestrated Lieder
9. The Song Cycle: Journeys Through a Romantic Landscape 363
John Daverio (revised and with an Afterword by David Ferris)
 The Romantic Song Cycle as a Genre—The Prehistory of the Romantic Song Cycle: Performance or Work of Art?—Schubert’s Song Cycles: Biedermeier Sensibility and Romantic Irony—Schumann’s Song Cycles: The Composer as Poet and Historian—After Schumann: Experiments, Dramatic Cycles, and Orchestral Lieder (Cornelius, Brahms, Wagner, Wolf, Mahler, Strauss)—Afterword

10. Performing Lieder: The Mysterious Mix 405
Robert Spillman
 Communication—Faithfulness—Understanding—
 Technique—Style—Presentation

Index 421