

CONTENTS

Introduction: Power to the People? Populism, Insurrections,
Democratization 1
Carlos de la Torre

Part I The People and Populism

1. Political Theology and Populism 31
Andrew Arato
2. Power to Whom? The People between Procedure and Populism 59
Paulina Ochoa Espejo
3. The People as Re-presentation and Event 91
Benjamín Arditi
4. Insurgencies Don't Have a Plan—They Are the Plan: Political Performatives and Vanishing Mediators 113
Benjamín Arditi
5. Populism, Political Mobilizations, and Crises of Political Representation 140
Kenneth M. Roberts
6. Populist Mobilization: A New Theoretical Approach to
Populism 159
Robert S. Jansen
7. Explaining the Emergence of Populism in Europe and the Americas 189
Cristóbal Rovira Kaltwasser

Part II Global Populism

8. "Free the People": The Search for "True Democracy" in Western Europe's Far-Right Political Culture 231
José Pedro Zúquete
  9. A New American Populist Coalition? The Relationship between the Tea Party and the Far Right 265
George Michael
  10. Contemporary Populism and "The People" in the Asia-Pacific Region: Thaksin Shinawatra and Pauline Hanson 293
Benjamin Moffitt
  11. Varieties of African Populism in Comparative Perspective 317
Danielle Resnick
  12. The Contested Meanings of Insurrections, the Sovereign People, and Democracy in Ecuador, Venezuela, and Bolivia 349
Carlos de la Torre
  13. Popular Power in the Discourse of Hugo Chávez's Government (1999–2013) 372
Margarita López Maya
  14. "El Pueblo Boliviano, de Composición Plural": A Look at Plurinationalism in Bolivia 398
Nancy Postero
- Conclusion: Some Further Thoughts on Populism 431
Cas Mudde
- Acknowledgments 453
- Contributors 455
- Index 457