

■ IN BRIEF	5	New shots in the U.S.-China trade war; Audi's Tesla killer
■ AGENDA	6	The UN General Assembly meets; more Fear is coming
■ VIEW	6	The EU's plan to stop dirty money misses the mark
■ REMARKS	10	Brexit brings Britain to a standstill
1 BUSINESS	14 18	The cloud around Belt and Road's biggest builder VC pioneer Kleiner Perkins ponders life after Meeker
2 TECHNOLOGY	23 25 26	Old and in the way at IBM? The inequitable gap in equity for Silicon Valley women Helping driverless cars navigate all kinds of weather
3 FINANCE	28 31	A tribal-owned mortgage provider raises eyebrows Can CEO Christian Sewing patch up Deutsche Bank?
4 ECONOMICS	35 37	Macron's EU agenda fades as his star falls at home The China hawk behind Trump's trade strategy
5 POLITICS	41	Jay Powell's success may rest on his political skills

44 Charlotte was prepared for flooding long before Florence

■ PURSUITS	67 72 73 74 75	Dying villages find new life as hospitality hubs The Czechs' long-forgotten answer to Vespa rides again Sobrasada (no, not soppressata) spices up U.S. menus Finding comfort inside the minds of past presidents Art cred meets street cred in a Yayoi Kusama skateboard
■ LAST THING	76	Why the Fed is afraid of a risk-free bank

Al Gore is still optimistic about saving the planet

FEATURES

50

The Few, the Proud, the Makers

U.S. Marines get lifesaving lessons in improvisation

56

A Missed Opportunity for Miss America

New boss Gretchen Carlson isn't winning any popularity contests

62

Toyota's Automomish Vision

The carmaker sees a driverless future that isn't quite driverless

MAJETE
ÚSTŘEDNÍ KNI
ČVUT