Contents

Foreword by Joseph R. Duffy, PhD, BC-ANCDS ix
Preface xi
Acknowledgments xiii

1 Writing and Learning Are Complementary Activities 1
What the Research Says About Writing and Learning 1
Purpose of This Book 2
References 3

2 The Introduction 5
Setting the Scene 5
Reviewing the Literature 6
Stating the Purpose 7
Summary: How to Write the Introduction 8
Keeping Readers With You 9
Guidelines for Writing the Introduction 10
References 10

3 The Method 11
Organization of the Method Section 11
Participants 12
Materials 14
Apparatus 18
Procedures 20
Design 20
Data Collection (Data Acquisition) 21
Reliability 22
Statistical Analysis 22
Style 23
Guidelines for Writing the Method 23

4 The Results 25
Commonly Used Statistics in Communication Sciences and Disorders 25
Special Cases 26
How to Report Statistics 28
Writing the Results Section 30
Guidelines for Writing the Results 32
References 33

5 Constructing Data Tables 35
Elements of Data Tables 35
A Checklist for Evaluating Tables 56
References 56

6 Constructing Data Graphs 57
Graph Types 57
Axis Titles, Scale Labels, and Legends 74
General Principles for Constructing Data Graphs 76
A Checklist for Constructing Graphs 85
Reference 85

7 The Discussion 87
How to Begin the Discussion Section 87
How to Organize the Discussion 90
How and When to Use Headings to Enhance Readability 92
Combined Results and Discussion Sections 93
How to Close the Discussion 93
Conclusions 94
Hedging Language 94
Guidelines for Writing the Discussion 95
Reference 95

8 The Title 97
Title Format 97
Length of Titles 102
Syntax 104
Abbreviations, Acronyms, and Technical Terms in Titles 105
Key Words 106
Running Titles 107
Guidelines for Writing the Title 107
References 108

9 The Abstract 113
Kinds of Abstracts 114
Suggestions for Writing Abstracts 115
Guidelines for Writing Abstracts 120
References 120

10 Literature Reviews 123
Searching the Literature 123
Definitions of Review Articles 124
Conventional and Systematic Reviews 125
Structure of Review Articles 129

Content of Review Articles 131
References 144

11 Content Editing 147
Moving From the Writer's Mind to the Editor's Mind 148
Review 148
Markup 149
Revision 149
Guidelines for Content Editing 150
Reference 150

12 Copy Editing 151
Removing Clutter 151
Modifiers 167
Pronouns 168
Infinitives: To Split or Not to Split 171
Editing Verb Tense 174
Word Choice and Precision 176
Punctuation 180
References 190

13 Getting Published 191
The Changing Face of Publication 191
Issues to Consider When Choosing a Journal 191
The Submission and Review Process 193
The Final Stretch: Preparing the Manuscript for Publication 196
Helping Search Engines Find and Index Your Work 196
Publication Ethics 197
Final Thoughts 197
References 197

14 The Writing Process 199
Resources for Getting Started and Keeping Going 199
Suggestions for Making the Writing Process More Efficient 200
Writing Resources for Teachers and Students 201
Guidelines for the Writing Process 202
References 202

Index 205