

Contents

List of Contributors	page vii
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction: Judges and Journalists and the Spaces In Between David Taras	1
1 Judicial Communication: (Re)Constructing Legitimacy in Argentina Druscilla Scribner	14
2 Communication beyond the Judgments: The Australian High Court, Speaking for Itself, but Not Tweeting Rachel Spencer	39
3 Uncommon Transparency: The Supreme Court, Media Relations, and Public Opinion in Brazil Matthew C. Ingram	58
4 The “Uncomfortable Embrace”: The Supreme Court and the Media in Canada Susan Harada	81
5 Germany: The Federal Constitutional Court and the Media Christina Holtz-Bacha	101

6	The Supreme Court and Media in Ghana's Fourth Republic: An Analysis of Rulings and Interactions between Two Estates of the Realm Wisdom J. Tettey	119
7	The Puzzle of Judicial Communication in Indonesia: The Media, the Court, and the Chief Justice Stefanus Hendrianto	141
8	Carping, Criticizing, and Circumventing: Judges, the Supreme Court, and the Media in Israel Bryna Bogoch and Anat Peleg	164
9	Judicial Communication in South Korea: Moving toward a More Open System? Ahran Park and Kyu Ho Youm	184
10	Changing the Channel: Broadcasting Deliberations in the Mexican Supreme Court Francisca Pou Giménez	209
11	Norway: Managed Openness and Transparency Gunnar Grendstad, William R. Shaffer, and Eric N. Waltenburg	235
12	Judicial Institutional Change and Court Communication Innovations: The Case of the UK Supreme Court Leslie J. Moran	255
13	Symbiosis: The US Supreme Court and the Journalists Who Cover It Richard Davis	281
	Conclusion Richard Davis	297
	Index	305