

Contents

List of Figures	xiii
List of Tables	xv
1. Introduction	1
The Book's Argument	4
A Skewed Balance of Powers	6
Understanding Case-Law Development	7
Case-Law Constraints on Policymaking	10
Case Selection and Methodology	13
The Book's Structure	17
2. The European Court of Justice as a Political Actor	23
Courts as Political Actors	24
The ECJ as a Motor of Integration	26
The Court, its Judges, and its Professional Environment	28
The Commission	34
The ECJ's Supporting Coalition: Member-State Courts and Private Litigants	36
The Court and the Masters of the Treaty	39
Conclusion: Shortcomings in the Literature	47
3. Case-Law Development between Path Dependence and Legal Uncertainty	50
The Distinctive Approach towards Integration in the EU	52
Legal Uncertainty	54
Legal Texts as a Source of Legal Uncertainty	55
Adjudication as a Source of Legal Uncertainty	56
The Multilevel System as a Source of Legal Uncertainty	59
Applying the Concept of Path Dependency to Case Law	60
Path-Dependent Jurisprudence on the Fundamental Freedoms	63
The Transfer of Logic to Other Freedoms	69
Services	70
Establishment	72
The Free Movement of Workers	74
Capital	77
Citizenship	78
A Unified Restrictions Approach	82
The Evolving Interpretation of Case Law	85
Conclusion	89
4. The Interaction of Judicial and Legislative Policymaking	93
Negotiating Legislation in the Shadow of the Court	95
Pressurizing the Legislative Process: Strategies of the Commission	100

Making an Offer that Can't be Refused: The Lesser-Evil Strategy	100
Breaking the Resistance in the Council: Divide and Conquer	103
The Services Directive	106
The Content of the Directive	107
Negotiating the Services Directive	109
What we can Learn from the Directive	113
The Regulation for Goods	114
The Content of the Regulation	117
The Burden of Proof in the Case Law	118
Explaining Member States' Consent	120
Summarizing the Argument	122
Conclusion: Is the Judiciary Overshadowing the Legislature?	123
5. Reaching Beyond the Market into State Responsibilities	126
The Citizenship Directive	127
The Historical Origins of Citizenship Rights	128
Case-Law Development	131
Negotiating the Citizenship Directive (2004/38/EC)	132
Case-Law Development After the Directive	136
Conclusion	139
The Patient Mobility Directive	141
Existing Case Law on Patient Mobility	142
Negotiating the Patient Mobility Directive	145
Conclusion	148
Failed Codification	150
The Failed Monti II Regulation	151
Integrating Member States' Tax Policies	153
Litigating Direct Domestic Taxes at the ECJ	154
An Impossible Quest?	158
The Court's Response—Switching to a Lower Gear	161
Legislative Responses at the EU Level	163
Conclusion: No Exit from the Joint-Decision Trap	165
Conclusion	166
6. Europeanization With and Against the Odds: The Cases of Meilicke and Zambrano	169
Research on Europeanization	171
The Meilicke cases	175
Meilicke	175
The Facts Concerning Meilicke I	176
The Court's Ruling	178
Meilicke II	178
Assessing Meilicke	179
The Court's Activism on Citizenship Rights	180
The Zambrano Case	181
Fine-Tuning Zambrano	182
Member States' Reactions	185

The Irish Reaction	186
Citizenship Law in Ireland	186
Explaining Proactivity	188
The Reaction in Other Member States	190
Conclusion	194
7. The Europeanization Effects of Case Law	197
Explaining Member States' Reactions to Case Law	199
The Cognitive Dimension of Responses to Case Law	201
Actors' Reactions	201
Executive Reactions	202
Administrative Accommodation	202
Executive Resistance	206
Executive Compensation	209
Legislative Accommodation	212
The Reform of Limited Companies	212
The Posting of Workers	214
The Laval Quartet	215
Reform of Social Benefits in the United Kingdom	216
Judicial Reactions	219
Domestic Judicial Activism	220
Domestic Judicial Restraint	222
Societal Actors	224
Conclusion	226
8. Conclusion	231
Activism?	236
Time	240
Legitimacy	241
The Rule of Law beyond the Nation State	246
Where Should Political Science Go from Here?	248
Bibliography	253
Index	283