

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Notes	13
2	“Give the Devil His Due”: Judge Holden’s Design in Blood Meridian	15
	Notes	49
3	“Antic Clay”?: The Competing Ethical Appeals of Blood Meridian	53
	Notes	90
4	“A Knowing Deep in the Bone”: Cowboy Stoicism and Tragic Heroism in All the Pretty Horses	95
	4.1 John Grady’s Constancy and the Idea of Fellowship	96
	4.2 John Grady in Paradise	103
	4.3 John Grady in Adversity	108
	4.4 John Grady After All	114
	Notes	124
5	“Like Some Suppliant to the Darkness Over Them All”: The Good of John Grady Cole in Cities of the Plain	127
	Notes	158

6 "Nothing is Crueler Than a Coward": No Country for Old Men and The Counselor as Tragic Fables of the Contemporary Southwest 161

6.1 Squandered Worlds in No Country for Old Men 164

6.2 Riding the Hellbound Train in The Counselor 231

6.3 Conclusion 245

Notes 248

7 Coda—The Good of Story in The Road 263

Notes 276

Bibliography 279

Index 295