
Contents

- List of Contributors* vii
- Introduction: Producing Songs and Sons* 1
Matthew S. Gordon
1. Statistical Approaches to the Rise of Concubinage in Islam 11
Majied Robinson
2. Abbasid Courtesans and the Question of Social Mobility 27
Matthew S. Gordon
3. A Jariya's Prospects in Abbasid Baghdad 52
Pernilla Myrne
4. *Visibility and Performance: Courtesans in the Early Islamicate Courts
(661–950 CE)* 75
Lisa Nielson
5. The Qiyān of al-Andalus 100
Dwight F. Reynolds
6. The Ethnic Origins of Female Slaves in al-Andalus 124
Cristina de la Puente
7. The Mothers of the Caliph's Sons: Women as Spoils of War during the Early Almohad Period 143
Heather J. Empey
8. Concubines on the Road: Ibn Battuta's Slave Women 163
Marina A. Tolmacheva

9. Slaves in Name Only: Free Women as Royal Concubines in Late Timurid Iran and Central Asia 190
Usman Hamid
10. A Queen Mother and the Ottoman Imperial Harem: Rabia Gülnuş Emetullah Valide Sultan (1640–1715) 207
Betül İpşirli Arçıt
11. Hagar and Mariya: Early Islamic Models of Slave Motherhood 225
Elizabeth Urban
12. Between History and Hagiography: The Mothers of the Imams in Imami Historical Memory 244
Michael Dann
13. Are Houris Heavenly Concubines? 266
Nerina Rustomji
14. Educated Slave Women and Gift Exchange in Abbasid Culture 278
Jocelyn Sharlet
15. Remembering the Umm al-Walad: Ibn Kathir's Treatise on the Sale of the Concubine 297
Younus Y. Mirza
- Epilogue: Avenues to Social Mobility Available to Courtesans and Concubines* 324
Kathryn A. Hain

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS 341

INDEX 343