

Contents

---

Acknowledgments	viii
Sources and Abbreviations	ix
Introduction	1
1 Commodities, Needs and Consumption in the Consumer Society	7
1.1 Starting Point: The System of Objects	8
1.2 The Consumer Society	12
1.3 For a Critique of the Political Economy of the Sign	19
1.4 Baudrillard and Political Economy	27
2 Beyond Marxism	33
2.1 Marx, Needs and Use Values	34
2.2 Marx and The Mirror of Production	39
2.3 Baudrillard's Politics and the Critique of French Communism	54
3 Media, Simulations and the End of the Social	60
3.1 On the Way to Postmodernity	61
3.2 McLuhan, Media and Information	66
3.3 Simulation, Hyperreality and Implosion	76
3.4 The End of the Social?	84
3.5 Baudrillard, Poststructuralism and Nietzsche	89
4 The Postmodern Carnival	93
4.1 Fashion, the Body and Sexuality	94
4.2 Life, Death and Sign Fetishism	102
4.3 Postmodern Art, Architecture and Sign Culture	108
4.4 Nihilism and Postmodernity	117

	5 Provocations	122
5.1	Beyond Freud and the Mirror of Desire	124
5.2	Forget Foucault	131
5.3	Baudrillard's Affront to Feminism: De la séduction	143
5.4	Baudrillardian Polemics and the French Cultural Scene	150
	6 The Metaphysical Imaginary	153
6.1	Fatal Strategies and the Supremacy of the Object	154
6.2	America	168
6.3	'Forget Baudrillard' and L'autre par lui-même	173
6.4	Baudrillard and the Return of Metaphysics	177
	7 Beyond Baudrillard	186
7.1	The Divine Left	189
7.2	The Ecstasy of Baudrillard	199
7.3	For Radical Social Theory and Politics	210
	Notes	217
	Bibliography	237
	Index	242