
CONTENTS

List of Figures	viii
Foreword by Florence A. Clark	ix
Preface by Gina Coleman and Zoe Mailloux	xi

Part I: Sensory Integration and the Brain

CHAPTER 1

What Is Sensory Integration? An Introduction to the Concept	3
Some Notes About Words	4
Sensory Integration Is... ..	5
Poor Sensory Integration Is... ..	8
Making Sense of Sensory Integration	10
Why This Book Was Written	12

CHAPTER 2

Watching Sensory Integration Develop: The Development of Sensory Integration From Infancy to Middle Childhood	13
Basic Principles of Child Development	13
The Developmental Steps	16

CHAPTER 3

The Nervous System Within: Understanding How the Brain Works and the Importance of Sensation	27
Part I: Understanding How Our Brain Works	27
A Short Synopsis	27
The Parts of the Nervous System	29
Making Sense of Sensory Integration	32
How the Brain Processes Information	35
Part II: The Importance of Sensation	38
The Five Senses and Beyond	38
Sensation and the Whole Brain	43
How the Nervous System Learns to Integrate Sensation	43

Part II: Sensory Integrative Dysfunction

CHAPTER 4

What Is Sensory Integrative Dysfunction? Symptoms, Causes, and Levels	47
What Causes the Problem?	50
The Integrative Process	54

CHAPTER 5

Disorders Involving the Vestibular System: The Sense of Movement and How It Influences the Development of Many Skills	61
Organization of the Vestibular System	62
The Underreactive Vestibular System	73
A Checklist for Problems in Vestibular-Bilateral Integration	77
Tips for Parents	78
Overreactive Vestibular Responses	78
A Checklist for Gravitational Insecurity	83
Tips for Parents	84
Making Sense of Sensory Integration	85

CHAPTER 6

Developmental Dyspraxia: The Process of Learning New Motor Skills and Why This Is Hard for Some Children	87
Types of Movement and Movement Disorders	87
The Body Percept and Motor Planning	90
Making Sense of Sensory Integration	93
Developmental Dyspraxia: What Is It?	97
How Does It Feel to Be a Child With Dyspraxia?	100
Tips for Parents	102
A Checklist for Problems in Praxis (Motor Planning)	103

CHAPTER 7

Tactile Defensiveness: The Sense of Touch and Why Some Children Are More Sensitive Than Others	105
The Symptoms	106
Making Sense of Sensory Integration	107
The Child's Experience	108
What Is Going on in the Nervous System?	108
What Has Gone Wrong?	111
Tips for Parents	112
A Checklist for Tactile Defensiveness	113

CHAPTER 8

Visual Perception and Auditory-Language Disorders: The Perception of Sight and Sound and Its Relationship to Learning and Language	115
Visual Perception Problems	116
Making Sense of Sensory Integration	118
A Checklist for Problems in Visual Perception	121
Tips for Parents	122
Auditory and Language Problems	122
Making Sense of Sensory Integration	123
A Checklist for Auditory Processing Disorders	125

CHAPTER 9

The Child With Autism: Understanding the Special Sensory Integration Needs and Challenges Associated With This Diagnosis	127
The Sensory Processing Disorder	128
Wanting to Do Things	132
Making Sense of Sensory Integration	134

Part III: What Can Be Done About the ProblemCHAPTER 10

Assessment and Intervention: How Therapy Using a Sensory Integration Approach Can Help	139
Integration and Competence Through Environmental Interaction	140
The Nature of Therapy Using a Sensory Integration Approach	141
A Case Study	151

CHAPTER 11

What Parents Can Do: How Parents Can Help Their Children With Sensory Integrative Dysfunction	153
Recognizing the Problem	153
Help Your Child to Feel All Right About Himself	155
Control the Environment	159
Help Your Child Learn How to Play	161
Seek Professional Help	165

APPENDIX A

Chapter Commentaries	169
Chapter 1—Mary Schneider, Ph.D.	169
Chapter 2—Susan H. Knox, Ph.D.	171
Chapter 3—Shelly J. Lane, Ph.D.	172
Chapter 4—Anita C. Bundy, Sc.D.	173
Chapter 5—Jane A. Koomar, Ph.D.	174
Chapter 6—Sharon A. Cermak, Ed.D.	175
Chapter 7—L. Diane Parham, Ph.D.	177
Chapter 8—Susanne Smith Roley, M.S.	179
Chapter 9—Margaret L. Bauman, M.D.	180
Chapter 10—Erna Imperatore Blanche, Ph.D.	181
Chapter 11—Brian Erwin and Christine Hunsicker	182

APPENDIX B

Literature Reviews	183
---------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX C

Therapeutic Equipment	191
------------------------------------	-----

APPENDIX D

Some Questions Parents Ask—and the Answers	195
---	-----

GLOSSARY	199
-----------------------	-----

REFERENCES	203
-------------------------	-----

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES	205
-----------------------------------	-----

Figures

1. A View of the Brain As Though It Were Cut Down the Middle	29
2. The Neuron	30
3. The Process of Sensory Integration	55
4. A Scooter Board	191
5. A Bolster Swing	193