

CONTENTS

Preface – Gary B. Cohen	vii
Notes on Contributors	ix
Introduction – Nancy M. Wingfield	1
Part One
The Origins and Changing Images of the Other to 1848
1. Representing National Territory: Cartography and Nationalism in Hungary, 1700-1848 Irina Popova	19
2. The Functions of Ethnic Stereotypes in Austria and Hungary in the Early Nineteenth Century András Vári	39
3. Czechs, Germans, Bohemians? Images of Self and Other in Bohemia to 1848 Hugh LeCaine Agnew	56
Part Two
Austria-Hungary in the Age of Nationalism
4. The Image of the Other in the Nineteenth Century: Historical Scholarship in the Bohemian Lands Jiří Štaif	81
5. Gentry, Jews, and Peasants: Jews as Others in the Formation of the Modern Polish Nation in Rural Galicia during the Second Half of the Nineteenth Century Kai Struve	103
6. Nationalizing Rural Landscapes in Cisleithania, 1880-1914 Pieter M. Judson	127

7. Ethnology, Cultural Reification, and the Dynamics of Difference in the Kronprinzenwerk Regina Bendix	149
Part Three
The Legacy: Where Images Collide
8. Hungarian Motifs in the Emergence and the Decline of a Czechoslovak National Narrative, 1890-1930 Peter Haslinger	169
9. The South Slavs in the Austrian Imagination: Serbs and Slovenes in the Changing View from German Nationalism to National Socialism Christian Promitzer	183
10. Peoples of the Mountains, Peoples of the Plains: Space and Ethnographic Representation Karl Kaser	216
11. Marking the Difference or Looking for Common Ground? Southeast Central Europe Oto Luthar and Breda Luthar	231
12. The Psychology of Creating the Other in National Identity, Ethnic Enmity, and Racism Peter Loewenberg	243
Select Bibliography	257
Index	260