

Editorial

Paulína Koršňáková, Jana Straková	5
--	---

Empirical Papers

Educational Effectiveness, Efficiency, and Equity in Spanish Regions:
What Does PISA 2015 Reveal?

Francisco López Rupérez, Isabel García García, Eva Expósito-Casas	9
--	---

The Relationship between Students' ICT Use and Their School Performance:
Evidence from PISA 2015 in the Czech Republic

Libor Juhaňák, Jiří Zounek, Klára Záleská, Ondřej Bárta, Kristýna Vlčková	37
--	----

Comparing results of TIMSS and the Hungarian National Assessment of Basic Competencies

Ildikó Balázs, Ildikó Szepesi	65
--	----

Linking Mathematics TIMSS Achievement to National Examination
Scores and School Marks: Unexpected Gender Differences in Slovenia

Barbara Japelj Pavešič, Gašper Cankar	77
--	----

Factors Explaining the Interest of Czech Students in Reading and Mathematics

Eva Potužníková	101
----------------------------------	-----

Demonstration of Simpson's Paradox in PISA 2015 Data:
Confusing Differences between Boys and Girls

Gašper Cankar	125
--------------------------------	-----