
CONTENTS

Acknowledgments xi

Note to the Teacher xiii

Part One

BACKGROUND 1

Chapter One
WHAT IS LINGUISTICS? 3

Chapter Two
ANIMAL COMMUNICATION 9

General Background 9
Bee Communication 12
Bird Communication 22
Dolphin and Whale
Communication 32
Primate Communication 36
Animal Communication and the Message Model 40

Part Two

THE STRUCTURE OF HUMAN LANGUAGE 47

Introduction 49

Chapter Three		Words: Some Background Concepts	54
MORPHOLOGY: THE STRUCTURE OF WORDS	54	How Are New Words Created?	69
Chapter Four		Some Background Concepts	99
PHONOLOGY: THE STRUCTURE AND PATTERNING OF THE SOUNDS OF LANGUAGE	99	The Representation of Speech Sounds	105
		Organizational Principles of Phonology	139
Chapter Five		Some Background Concepts	162
SYNTAX: THE STUDY OF SENTENCE STRUCTURE	162	An Informal Theory of Syntax	169
		A More Formal Account of Syntactic Theory	207
Chapter Six		Semantics as Part of a Grammar	236
SEMANTICS: THE STUDY OF MEANING AND REFERENCE	236	What Are Meaning and Reference?	237
		Aims and Claims of a Semantic Theory	246
		A Sample Semantic Analysis	260
Chapter Seven		Language Styles and Dialects	286
LANGUAGE VARIATION	286	Some Rules of the Grammar of Informal Style in English	298
		Other Language Varieties	316

Chapter Eight
LANGUAGE CHANGE	340
		Some Background Concepts 340
		The Reconstruction of Indo-European, the Nature of Language Change, and Language Families of the World 344
		The Linguistic History of English 362
		The Graphic Representation of Language 373
Part Three
COMMUNICATION AND COGNITIVE SCIENCE	385
Introduction	387
Chapter Nine
PRAGMATICS: THE STUDY OF LANGUAGE USE AND COMMUNICATION	390
		Linguistic Communication: Some Background Concepts 390
		An Inferential Approach to Communication 398
		Conclusion: Inferential Theories versus the Message Model 414
		Discourse and Conversation 414
		Appendix: Summary of Presumptions and Inferences 420
Chapter Ten
PSYCHOLOGY OF LANGUAGE: SPEECH PRODUCTION AND COMPREHENSION	428
		Competence and Performance 428
		Speech Production 429
		Comprehension 434

Chapter Eleven
LANGUAGE ACQUISITION
IN CHILD AND CHIMP 465

Language Acquisition in Children 466

Is the Human Linguistic Capacity Unique: Children and Chimpanzees Compared 480

Chapter Twelve
LANGUAGE AND THE BRAIN 493

Where Is Language Localized
in the Brain? 494

How Does the Brain Encode and Decode Speech and Language? 501

Are Components of Language
Neuroanatomically Distinct? 509

Glossary 517

Index 533