
CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	v
Table of Cases	xiii
Table of Legislation	xix
1. Introduction	1
2. The Constitutionalisation of EU Criminal Law After Lisbon	4
I. Introduction	4
II. The Constitutionalisation of EU Criminal Law	5
A. Constitutionalisation at EU level: Institutions, Principles, Rights	5
B. Constitutionalisation and the Member States: Focusing on Transposition and Implementation	11
C. Constitutionalisation as Interdependence. Towards a More Coherent EU Criminal Policy.....	13
III. The Persistence of National Diversity	14
IV. The Competence Debate—Contested Competence.....	19
A. Contested Competence: Member States v The EU—The Lissabon-Urteil	19
B. Contested Competence and Inter-institutional Balance: The Road Traffic Offences Directive Case	21
C. Contested Competence and Inter-institutional Balance: The Internal/External Dimension—The Case of Terrorist Sanctions	25
V. The Limits of Subsidiarity	40
VI. The Limits of Justice À-la-Carte: Variable Geometry and the Case of the United Kingdom.....	44
VII. Conclusion.....	50
3. Defining EU Competence in Substantive Criminal Law: From Securitised to Functional Criminalisation	53
I. Introduction	53
II. The Constitutional Politics of Criminalisation Before Lisbon: The Interplay Between Securitised and Functional Criminalisation.....	54

III.	EU Competence to Criminalise After Lisbon: Securitised and Functional Criminalisation Revisited	57
A.	Securitised Criminalisation—Article 83(1) TFEU	58
B.	Functional Criminalisation—Article 83(2) TFEU	60
C.	The Extent of EU Competence to Criminalise: Minimum Rules.....	62
IV.	The Relationship Between Criminal and Administrative Law.....	63
V.	Extending EU Competence to Criminalise Elsewhere in the Treaty	65
VI.	Policy Responses to the EU Competence to Criminalise After Lisbon	68
VII.	The Lisbon Treaty and the Impact on National Criminal Law	72
A.	Effectiveness and National Criminal Law: Decriminalisation	73
B.	Effectiveness as Assimilation: Over-criminalisation.....	74
VIII.	Conclusion	80
4.	The Rocky Road to European Prosecution: Caught Between Co-ordination and Centralisation	83
I.	Introduction.....	83
II.	Horizontal Co-ordination via the Protection of Fundamental Rights: The Emergence of a Transnational Ne Bis In Idem Principle	84
III.	Horizontal Co-ordination via the Establishment of Common Standards—The Case of Decisions on Choice of Forum and Conflicts of Jurisdiction	91
IV.	Towards Vertical Co-ordination: The Evolution and Powers of Eurojust.....	94
A.	The Commission’s Proposal for a Eurojust Regulation.....	96
B.	The Council General Approach	101
V.	Towards the Establishment of the European Public Prosecutor’s Office—Ambitions and Limits to Centralisation.....	103
A.	Structure and Powers of the European Public Prosecutor’s Office.....	104
B.	Competence, Scope, Territoriality	109
C.	Judicial Review of the European Public Prosecutor’s Office at EU Level	113
i.	Constitutional Challenges from Limiting EU Judicial Review for Acts of the EPPO.....	113
ii.	Judicial Review of Investigation Decisions and Acts: Lessons from OLAF	117

VI.	The Quest for Coherence in Prosecution in a Fragmented Area of Criminal Justice	119
VII.	Conclusion	121
5.	Mutual Recognition and Mutual Trust in Europe's Area of Criminal Justice: The Centrality of Fundamental Rights	124
I.	Introduction.....	124
II.	Mutual Recognition as Legal Pluralism.....	125
III.	Establishing Limits to Automatic Recognition: The Role of Fundamental Rights.....	129
A.	Fundamental Rights as Grounds for Refusal in the European Arrest Warrant Case-Law.....	131
B.	Fundamental Rights as Limits to Automatic Recognition: Lessons from European Asylum Law	136
C.	Mutual Trust and Fundamental Rights: The Impact of Opinion 2/13	140
IV.	Proportionality as a Limit to Mutual Recognition	142
V.	Mutual Recognition, Mutual Trust and the Rule of Law	147
VI.	Conclusion: From Presumed to Earned Trust in Europe's Area of Criminal Justice	151
6.	Legislating for Human Rights: The EU Legal Framework on the Rights of Individuals in Criminal Proceedings.....	153
I.	Introduction.....	153
II.	The Rocky Road Towards EU Law on the Rights of the Defendant Before Lisbon.....	154
III.	The Lisbon Breakthrough—The Attribution of An Express (Albeit Functional) Competence to the European Union to Legislate on the Rights of the Individual in Criminal Procedure.....	156
IV.	The Renewed Momentum Towards EU Procedural Rights in the Light of Lisbon	158
V.	The Content of EU Procedural Rights.....	160
A.	The Directive on the Right to Interpretation and Translation.....	161
B.	The Directive on the Right to Information.....	162
C.	The Directive on the Right of Access to a Lawyer.....	165
VI.	Horizontal Issues: The Scope and Level of Protection of Procedural Rights After Lisbon	171
VII.	The Impact of EU Procedural Rights on National Legal Systems: Enforcement and Implementation of Rights.....	175
VIII.	The Impact of EU Procedural Rights on National Legal Diversity—The Role of Autonomous Concepts.....	176

IX.	Variable Geometry and EU Procedural Rights—The Quest for Coherence.....	180
X.	Conclusion: Towards a Paradigm Change in Europe’s Area of Criminal Justice	183
7.	The Place of the Victim in Europe’s Area of Criminal Justice.....	185
I.	Introduction	185
II.	Victims’ Rights in EU Criminal Law—A Typology.....	186
A.	Victims’ Rights as Free Movement Rights	187
B.	Mutual Recognition.....	188
C.	Harmonisation.....	190
III.	The Place of the Victim in Europe’s Area of Criminal Justice: Constitutional Implications.....	195
IV.	The Impact of EU Law on Victims’ Rights on National Criminal Justice Systems	199
A.	Mutual Recognition.....	199
B.	Harmonisation.....	202
V.	The Impact of Victims’ Rights on Justice in Europe	206
VI.	Conclusion.....	210
8.	The Uneasy Relationship Between EU Criminal Law and Citizenship of the Union	212
I.	Introduction	212
II.	Citizenship in EU Criminal Law.....	212
A.	EU Citizenship in the European Arrest Warrant	213
B.	EU Citizenship in the EU System on Transfer of Prisoners	220
III.	EU Criminal Law in EU Citizenship	223
A.	The Impact of Secondary EU Criminal Law on EU Citizenship— Tsakouridis	223
B.	The Impact of Primary EU Criminal Law on EU Citizenship: Article 83(1) TFEU and P.I.	227
IV.	Conclusion: Towards a Paradigm Change in Citizenship and EU Criminal Law	234
9.	The European Union and Preventive Justice. The Case of Terrorist Sanctions	236
I.	Introduction	236
II.	Preventive Justice via ‘Global Administrative Law’: The Role of the UN Security Council	237
III.	Implementation of the UN Security Council Resolutions by the European Union.....	241

- IV. Judicial Review of the EU Implementation of UN Security Council Resolutions: Kadi I.....245
- V. Judicial Review of the EU Implementation of UN Security Council Resolutions: *Kadi II*249
- VI. Extending the Preventive Justice Framework in the Field of Counter-Terrorism: The Case of Measures on ‘Foreign Fighters’257
- VII. Conclusion: Preventive Justice and the Limits of Procedural Justice260
- 10. Conclusion. Placing the Individual at the Heart of European Criminal Justice.....263
 - A. The Impact of the Lisbon Treaty on National Legal Diversity—From Cooperation and Mutual Recognition to Interdependence and Harmonisation264
 - B. The Impact of the Lisbon Treaty on the Relationship Between the Individual and the State—The Growing Importance of Fundamental Rights and the Rule of Law266
 - C. The Promise of Rights—The Individual at the Heart of European Criminal Justice270
- Bibliography*272
- Index*287