INTRODUCTION	13
1 BASIC CONCEPTS	16
1.1 Models of Communication.....	16
1.2 Language as a Code.....	17
1.3 Linguistics and Science.....	18
1.3.1 Sciences and disciplines dealing with human language.....	18
1.3.2 Formal analyses of language structure.....	19
1.3.3 Forms and functions.....	20
1.4 Adequacy of the Linguistic Model.....	22
1.5 Linguistics as a Science.....	23
1.5.1 A note about taxonomies.....	24
1.6 How to Evaluate Linguistic Data.....	24
1.6.1 Negative evidence in grammar.....	26
2 MORPHEMES	28
2.1 Lexical and Non-lexical Meanings of Morphemes.....	28
2.2 Criteria for Dividing Morphemes.....	31
2.2.1 The meaning/ function of the morpheme.....	31
2.2.2 The independent occurrence of the morpheme.....	32
2.2.3 Position of the morpheme with respect to the stem.....	32
2.3 Morphemes (Features) and Their Realizations.....	33
2.4 Level of Abstraction in Morphology.....	34
2.4.1 Combing morphemes: Early and late insertion.....	34
3 VOCABULARY	38
3.1 The Lexicon.....	38
3.2 Sources of Word Formation.....	39
3.3 Word Formation by Composition.....	39
3.3.1 Diverse, less central word formations.....	40
3.3.2 The nature of back formation.....	41
3.4 Derivational Morphology.....	42
3.5 The Open-endedness of the Lexicon.....	43
3.6 Productivity of Derivations and Its Limits.....	43
3.6.1 Blocking effect.....	43
3.6.2 Phonological limits on productivity.....	44
3.6.3 Morphological limits on productivity.....	44
3.6.4 Semantic limits on productivity.....	45
3.7 Classes of Morphemes.....	45
3.8 Conversion.....	46
4 MULTIPLE STEMS OF COMPOUNDS	48
4.1 No Standard Spelling for Compounds.....	49
4.2 Stress Placement.....	50
4.3 Inflectional Morphology in Compounds.....	50
4.4 Syntactic Transparency in Compounds.....	51

4.5	Semantic Transparency in Compounds	52
4.6	Headedness of Compounds	53
4.7	Right Hand Head Rule	54
4.8	Special Kinds of English Compounds	55
4.8.1	Nominal compounds: Bracketing paradox.....	55
4.8.2	Verbal compounds (incorporation).....	55
4.8.3	Other types of endocentric (English) compounds.....	56
4.8.4	Exocentric (headless) compounds in English	59
4.9	Summary of English Compound Structures	60
5	LANGUAGE TYPOLOGY.....	62
5.1	Genetic Classification.....	62
5.2	Morphological Classification (Typology)	63
5.3	Index of synthesis.....	63
5.3.1	Isolating languages	64
5.3.2	Synthetic Languages.....	64
5.4	Index of fusion	65
5.4.1	Agglutinating languages (Latin gluten = glue).	66
5.4.2	Fusional /inflectional languages	67
6	PARTS OF SPEECH/CATEGORIES.....	69
6.1	The Nature of Grammatical Categories.....	69
6.2	Criteria for Establishing Parts of Speech.....	70
6.2.1	General Classification of Parts of Speech.....	71
6.3	Semantic-Notional Criteria for Establishing a Category	72
6.4	Morphological Criteria for Establishing an Item's Category	72
6.4.1	Derivational morphology and the right hand head rule.....	72
6.4.2	Inflectional morphology: Categorial features	73
6.4.3	Grammaticalization as a source of morphological features	74
6.4.4	Types of features in morphology	76
6.5	Syntactic Criteria for Establishing a Category	78
6.5.1	Heads, phrases and Pro-forms	79
6.6	Categorial Proto-typicality	81
6.7	Some Functional Categories or "Minor" Parts of Speech.....	83
7	NOUNS: SEMANTICS AND MORPHOLOGY	84
7.1	Countability and Number	85
7.1.1	Countability	86
7.1.2	Number.....	87
7.2	Animacy and Gender of Nouns	89
7.2.1	Grammaticalization of Animacy.....	89
7.2.2	Gender	90
7.3	Determiners: Reference and Quantification	93
7.3.1	Classification of Determiners with respect to distribution.....	94
7.3.2	Central Determiners and the category DET.....	95
7.3.3	Postdeterminer position and numerals.....	95
7.3.4	Contrasting Pronouns and Articles	95
7.3.5	Types of Co-reference	97

8	THE STRUCTURE AND FUNCTIONS OF NP	99
8.1	Internal Structure of Noun Phrases.....	99
8.1.1	N-premodifiers	100
8.1.2	Determined and quantified NP	102
8.1.3	Recursive pre-modifiers in NP	104
8.1.4	Recursive postmodifiers of N	104
8.2	Distribution and Sentence Functions of Noun Phrases.....	106
8.3	Case Inflection and Sentence Functions.....	107
8.3.1	Abstract and morphological Case	107
8.3.2	The repertory and realizations of morphological Case	107
8.3.3	The source of Case	108
8.3.4	The role of Case in interpretation: semantic roles	109
9	PRONOUNS	113
9.1	Personal Pronouns	114
9.1.1	Interpretations of personal Pronouns	114
9.1.2	Special kinds of personal Pronouns	115
9.1.3	Functions and forms of personal Pronouns.....	115
9.2	Demonstratives: Determiners, Pronouns and Adverbs	116
9.3	Restricted Modification of Pronominals.....	116
9.4	Compound Indefinite Pronouns.....	117
9.5	Multi-valued English ONE.....	118
9.6	Relative Pronouns	118
9.6.1	Relative Pronoun agreement.....	119
9.6.2	Case with relative Pronouns	119
9.6.3	Omitting the relative Pronoun	120
9.7	Interrogative Pronouns	121
9.7.1	The form of the interrogative Pronouns.....	121
9.7.2	The position of the wh-Pronouns.....	121
9.7.3	Interpretation of interrogative Pronouns.....	122
10	BOUND ANAPHORS	123
10.1	Deixis, Reference and Co-reference	123
10.1.1	Anaphors and cataphors.....	123
10.1.2	Anaphors, pronominals and referential expressions	124
10.1.3	Co-reference: Antecedents marked with indices.....	125
10.2	The Binding Theory	125
10.3	The Forms and Interpretations of Bound Anaphors	126
10.3.1	English reciprocals	127
10.3.2	More cross-linguistic variation.....	128
10.4	The Distribution of Bound Anaphors in English.....	128
11	THE MODIFIER CATEGORY A	130
11.1	Semantic Characteristics of Adjectives/Adverbs.....	130
11.2	Adjectival/ Adverbial Morphology	132
11.2.1	Derivational morphology for the category "A"	132
11.2.2	Inflectional features of the category A.....	133
11.2.3	Grading of the category A	133

11.2.4	The inflectional nature of -ly	134
11.3	The Structure of AP.....	136
11.3.1	Pre-modification of A.....	136
11.3.2	Postmodification of A.....	137
11.3.3	Bare, unmodified Adverbs.....	139
11.3.4	The category of A.....	139
12	FUNCTIONS OF APS.....	141
12.1	Syntax of Adjective Phrases.....	141
12.1.1	Attribute function of Adjective pre- and postmodifiers.....	141
12.1.2	Predicate function of Adjective phrases.....	145
12.1.3	Predicate Adjective or Subject Complement?	146
12.1.4	Subject and Object Complements (secondary Predicates).....	148
12.1.5	Central vs. peripheral Adjectives.....	149
12.1.6	Secondary and “quotation” Adjectives.....	149
12.2	Syntax of ‘Adverbial’ Phrases.....	151
12.2.1	Adverbials as modifiers.....	151
12.2.2	General distribution of adverbial Adjunct APs.....	152
12.3	Adverbial Prepositions and Particles as PPs.....	153
12.3.1	Adverbs and particles	154
13	VERBS.....	155
13.1	Semantic Specifications and Classifications.....	155
13.1.1	Event structure and valency.....	155
13.1.2	Classification of Verbs based on semantic structure.....	156
13.2	The English Verbal Paradigm	158
13.2.1	Finite vs. non-finite verbal forms	159
13.3	Tense.....	160
13.4	English Verbal Aspects	161
13.4.1	Combinations of Aspect and Tense	162
13.5	Mood and Modality.....	163
13.6	Voice: Actives and Passives.....	165
13.7	Subject-Verb Agreement.....	165
13.8	The Morphological Template of a Predicate	166
14	SYNTAX OF VERBS: THE VERB PHRASE.....	168
14.1	Verb Phrase Internal Structure	168
14.2	Complement Selection (= Subcategorization).....	168
14.2.1	Verbs selecting Verbs: Complex VP projections.....	171
14.3	Comparing VP and NP Projections	173
14.4	Typical Sentence Functions of Verb Phrases	174
15	LEXICAL VS. NON-LEXICAL VERBS.....	175
15.1	Semantic Specifications of Verbs.....	176
15.2	Deontic and Epistemic Modals.....	177
15.3	Phonetic Reductions of Auxiliaries and Modals.....	178
15.4	Morphological Properties of Auxiliaries and Modals.....	178
15.5	Syntax of Lexical and Non-lexical Verbs.....	180
15.5.1	Question formation.....	180

15.5.2	Negation	181
15.5.3	Codas and truncated clauses	182
15.5.4	N.I.C.E. properties	183
15.5.5	Phonetically empty Ω , the Auxiliary DO and DO-support	183
15.6	Morphological vs. Syntactic Model of English Predicates	184
15.6.1	Functional classification	185
15.6.2	Classification of non-lexical Verbs.....	186
16	SPECIFICS OF THE ENGLISH AUXILIARY VERBS DO, BE AND HAVE 188
16.1	Two Lexical Entries for the Verb DO	188
16.2	Multi-functional BE	189
16.3	Specificity of HAVE	190
16.3.1	Stative HAVE	190
16.3.2	Auxiliary HAVE	192
16.3.3	Lexical frames for the Verb HAVE	193
16.4	Items with Dual Specification as Modals and Lexical Verbs	195
17	CLAUSAL CONSTITUENTS	196
17.1	Models of Predication Clause Structure	196
17.1.1	Relation between Subject and Predicate	196
17.2	Constituency Tests	198
17.2.1	Topicalization (fronting) of constituents	199
17.2.2	Clefting and pseudo-clefting of constituents	199
17.2.3	Pro-form substitution (replacement).....	200
17.2.4	Ellipsis (sentence fragments, question answering test).....	201
17.2.5	Omission (deletion) of constituents	201
17.2.6	Coordination of like constituents.....	202
17.2.7	Morphology characteristic of types of constituents	202
18	STRUCTURAL RELATIONS IN SENTENCES	204
18.1	Hierarchy and Co-reference	204
18.2	Hierarchy and Morphosyntax	207
18.2.1	Case and adjacency.....	207
18.2.2	Agreement	208
18.3	The Structures of Sentence Members	209
18.4	Attributes.....	211
18.4.1	Scope and interpretation of Attributes	211
18.4.2	Prenominal Attributes.....	214
18.4.3	Postnominal Attributes	215
19	SUBCATEGORIZATION	217
19.1	Semantic and Formal Hierarchies.....	219
19.2	Complements and Adjuncts.....	220
19.2.1	Defining Complements and Adjuncts.....	221
19.2.2	Adjuncts: Verbal and sentential Adverbs: 'Scope'	222
19.2.3	Bottom up Merge of lexical items in trees.....	223
20	STRUCTURAL V-OBJECTS	225
20.1	Semantic Roles of Objects of the Verb.....	225

20.2	Morphological Properties of Objects.....	226
20.3	Syntactic Definition of Objects as V-Complements.....	226
20.3.1	English vs. Czech definitions of 'syntactic/ structural' Object.....	227
20.4	A Note about Terminology using COMPLEMENT.....	229
20.5	Complements and Syntactic Subcategorization.....	230
21	PASSIVIZATION	232
21.1	Pragmatics: Usage or External Function of Passivization.....	232
21.1.1	Deagentization.....	232
21.1.2	Rhematization of Agent.....	233
21.2	Restrictions on Passivization.....	235
21.2.1	Categorial incompatibility.....	235
21.2.2	Semantic restrictions on the by-phrase.....	235
21.2.3	Idiosyncratic characteristics of some Verbs.....	235
21.3	Adjectival and Verbal Passives.....	236
21.4	English Specific Characteristics of Passive Structures.....	238
21.4.1	English double Object structures.....	238
21.4.2	Preposition stranding and Phrasal Verbs.....	239
21.4.3	V+N compounds and verbo-nominal Predicates.....	241
21.4.4	Medio-passives.....	242
22	SUBJECTS	244
22.1	Semantic Roles of Subjects.....	244
22.2	Morphological Properties of Subjects.....	246
22.2.1	Subject Case.....	247
22.2.2	Subject – Predicate agreement.....	248
22.2.3	Pro-drop languages.....	249
22.3	Pragmatic Roles of Subjects related to Linearity.....	251
23	SYNTAX OF ENGLISH SUBJECTS	253
23.1	Syntactic Processes Targeting the Subject Position.....	254
23.2	Dissociating Form and Meaning.....	255
23.2.1	Expletive Subjects IT and THERE.....	255
23.2.2	Raising to Subject.....	258
23.3	Comparing Czech and English Subjects.....	259
24	ENGLISH NEGATION	261
24.1	Kinds of Negation.....	261
24.1.1	Semantic negation.....	261
24.1.2	Constituent negation: lexical and phrasal.....	261
24.2	Sentence Negation.....	262
24.3	The Form and Number of Negative Operators.....	263
24.4	Negative Polarity Items.....	265
24.5	Comparing not and never	266
24.6	Tests for Polarity.....	267
24.7	The Scope of Negation.....	268
24.7.1	Shortening the scope of NEG.....	268
24.7.2	Enlarging the scope of NEG: NEG-transportation or transfer.....	269
24.8	Negative Adverbs and Partial Negation.....	269

25	DISCOURSE AND CLAUSAL PATTERNS	271
25.1	Clausal Taxonomy According to the Type of VP.....	271
25.2	Sentence Patterns: Modality.....	272
25.2.1	Narrow modality.....	272
25.2.2	Broad modality; functions and forms of English discourse.....	273
25.2.3	Clause patterns in English.....	273
25.2.4	Examples of English sentence patterns.....	276
25.3	Variety and Further Properties of Wh -questions.....	278
25.4	Comparing English and Czech Wh -Questions.....	280
25.4.1	Extraction domains.....	280
25.4.2	Multiple wh -questions.....	281
25.4.3	Long-distance wh -movement.....	282
26	EMBEDDED SUBORDINATE CLAUSES	283
26.1	Nominal Content Clauses.....	285
26.1.1	Finite clause reductions.....	285
26.1.2	Mood and other characteristics of a finite subordinate clause.....	286
26.2	Relative Clauses.....	286
26.2.1	Relativization.....	287
26.2.2	Relative Pronoun deletion.....	288
26.2.3	Attributive nominal content clauses vs. relative clauses.....	289
27	STRUCTURE OF INFINITIVES	291
27.1	Features of a (Non-)Finite Verb.....	291
27.1.1	The Sentence function of finiteness.....	292
27.1.2	Agents of Infinitives.....	294
27.2	Control Structures with PRO.....	295
27.2.1	Subject control of the Agent of an Infinitive.....	295
27.2.2	Object control of the Agent of an Infinitive.....	296
27.2.3	Arbitrary control of the Agent of an Infinitive.....	296
27.3	Alternative Case Assignment for Subjects of Infinitives.....	297
27.3.1	Raising.....	297
27.3.2	Exceptional Case marking (ECM).....	299
27.3.3	The Preposition 'for' with infinitival Subjects.....	300
27.4	Taxonomy of English Infinitives.....	301
28	DISTRIBUTION OF INFINITIVES	303
28.1	Bare Infinitives in English.....	303
28.2	Sentence Functions of Infinitives.....	305
28.3	Communicative and Pragmatic Function of Infinitives.....	307
28.4	General Distribution of Infinitives.....	308
29	ENGLISH V-ING FORMS	309
29.1	Derived Adjectives from V- ing Predicates.....	310
29.1.1	Derived Adjective Attributes from V- ing	310
29.2	Active Verbal Participles.....	311
29.2.1	The Progressive verbal participle.....	311
29.3	Derived Nominals and Gerunds.....	313
29.3.1	Combinatorial characteristics of Nouns.....	313

29.3.2	Combinatorial characteristics of a Verb	314
29.4	Three Kinds of English Nominalizations	315
29.4.1	Result nominals	316
29.4.2	Complex Event Nominals.....	316
29.5	Gerundive Nominals	317
29.5.1	Interpretation of Gerunds.....	318
29.6	Distributions of Participles, Gerunds and Infinitives.....	318
29.6.1	Nominal vs. verbal properties of nominalizations based on V-ing	319
29.6.2	Apparent categories; Fuzziness of the –ing morpheme	321
30	WORD ORDER	322
30.1	Order of Morphemes	322
30.2	Phrasal Word Order.....	323
30.3	Clausal Word Order	323
30.3.1	The functions of clausal constituent order	324
30.3.2	Grammatical aspects of constituent order.....	324
30.4	Pragmatic Aspects of Word Order.....	325
30.4.1	Discourse motivated linearity	325
30.4.2	Typology of multiple levels of dynamicity.....	326
30.4.3	Contextually bound vs. context free elements	327
30.5	Testing Pragmatic Word Order	329
30.5.1	Question test for the Focus/new information.....	329
30.5.2	Inherent dynamism	330
30.5.3	Topicality hierarchy.....	330
30.6	More Aspects of Sentence Dynamism.....	331
30.7	Markedness Theory	332
31	SENTENCE DYNAMISM IN ENGLISH	333
31.1	Passivization and FSP	333
31.2	FSP and Existential Structures: There Is/Are	334
31.3	(Pseudo-) Cleft Structures	335
31.4	Double Object Constructions and Sentence Dynamism	336
31.5	Topicalization.....	336
31.6	Preposing Adverbial Adjuncts.....	337
31.7	NP Extraposition, or Heavy NP Shift.....	338
31.8	Grammar or Pragmatics?.....	339
32	APPENDIX: TERMINOLOGICAL SUMMARY	341
32.1	Parts of speech/word categories	342
32.2	Functions/sentence members/syntagmatic relations	342
32.2.1	The characteristics of prototypical, unmarked SUBJECTs.....	343
32.2.2	The characteristics of prototypical unmarked OBJECTs.....	343
32.2.3	The canonical, standard, unmarked ATTRIBUTES.....	343
32.2.4	Complements, Adjuncts and disjuncts.....	343
32.3	Semantic Roles/Argument roles/Thematic Roles	344
