

■ IN BRIEF	5	A trillion-dollar deficit; Mueller testifies; food stamps
■ AGENDA	6	The Fed's next move; Beyond Meat; jobless figures
■ OPINION	6	Consensus on the budget—and it's not a good thing
■ REMARKS	8	Why oil stays cheap as tensions rise in the Persian Gulf
1 BUSINESS	12	▼ Sharks are filling Cape Cod waters. Businesses love it

	14	AB InBev tries not to act like the world's biggest brewer
	15	Chris Nassetta on how trade spats are affecting Hilton
2 TECHNOLOGY	16	Apple's heir apparent is more of a Tim than a Steve
	18	What can be done to keep cryptocurrencies honest?
	19	An autonomous sub to head off oil spills
3 FINANCE	20	The confusing new world of bonds with negative yields
	23	Cheap money's changing everything—and not going away
	24	Odd as subzero rates are, the ECB has few alternatives
4 ECONOMICS	26	Can Mitsotakis fix an economy as broken as Greece's?
	28	There's something fishy about India's rosy numbers
5 POLITICS	30	Boris Johnson's new job will be harder than he thinks
	32	Frustration boils over in Puerto Rico
■ PURSUITS	56	Women-only rallies catch motorcycle makers' attention
	58	Moulin Rouge! has the hardest-working set on Broadway
	60	Chuck the Old Spice; deodorants are going natural
	61	Why sea buckthorn is showing up on so many menus
	62	My Friend Anna was a con artist (who took this author)
	63	The advantages of having a 39-inch-tall cold brewer
■ LAST THING	64	Maybe this wasn't the best time for 3M to buy Acelity

FEATURES

34

Make America Liberal Again

An Elizabeth Warren win would substantially rewrite her party's priorities

42

Burning Man as Business Trip

Rick Doblin wants to legalize MDMA

46

Spend Big. Lose Constantly. Earn Plenty

Knicks owner James Dolan's unlikely recipe for success (financial, anyway)