

|   |    |  |
|---|----|--|
| ■ IN BRIEF  | 7  | CBS-Viacom; the Volcker Rule; endangered species                                 |
| ■ AGENDA  | 8  | The G-7 in Biarritz; a Merkel-Orban summit                                       |
| ■ OPINION   | 8  | Whatever Boris thinks he's doing on Brexit, it's a mistake                       |
| ■ REMARKS   | 10 | To understand the chaos in Hong Kong, look to 2047                               |
| 1 BUSINESS  | 14 | If it's not a force for good, Unilever says, we won't sell it                    |
|   | 16 | France may ditch those money-losing broadcasting laws                            |
|   | 17 | China's novel way of monetizing video game streaming                             |
| 2 TECHNOLOGY  | 19 | The FTC and Facebook: Sound and fury signifying little                           |
|   | 21 | AMD, long Intel's whipping boy, is fighting back                                 |
|   | 22 | The downside to giving tax incentives to tech startups                           |
| 3 FINANCE   | 24 | ▼ Student debt, the taker that keeps on taking                                   |
|  |    |  |
|   | 26 | Consumers don't spend, and interest rates go negative                            |
| 4 ECONOMICS   | 28 | E-commerce revives Sparrows Point, a formerly moldering Baltimore industrial hub |
| 5 POLITICS  | 32 | A political upset, and panicky investors, in Argentina                           |
|   | 34 | Brutality. Arrests. But Russian protests just keep growing                       |
| + SOLUTIONS   | 37 | The hackers are coming. Are the polls prepared?                                  |
|   | 39 | How to outwit a con artist, from a famous con artist                             |
| ■ PURSUITS  | 59 | Museums want spotless money. Easier said than done                               |
|   | 62 | The startups seeking a slice of the golf-ball market                             |
|   | 63 | Nonalcoholic beer that actually tastes like beer                                 |
|   | 64 | A brighter picture for point-and-shoot cameras                                   |
|   | 66 | It's not only a massage, it may be a way to shed pounds                          |
|   | 67 | Overcoming fitful sleep with a smarter alarm clock                               |
| ■ LAST THING  | 68 | China needs to boost R&D, but it's trickier than it looks                        |

FEATURES

40

Wide-Open Lonely Spaces

The one tireless psychiatrist battling eastern Montana's spiraling suicide rate

48

The Politics of Cement

Why it's so hard to get a vital building material into Gaza

54

Near Campus, Far From Affordable

As REITs develop local properties, student housing costs go up, up, up