

Table of Contents

Introduction	1
The Business of Opera: Opera, Advertising and the Return to Popular Culture Paul Fryer	7
Making Culture Popular: Opera and the Media Industries Sam O'Connell	32
Opera Criticism: State of the Art and Beyond Daniel Meyer-Dinkgräfe	43
Gods and Heroes or Monsters of the Media? Trevor Siemens	65
Opera and the Audio Recording Industry Robert Cannon	89
Opera Singers as Pop Stars: Opera Within the Popular Music Industry Christopher Newell and George Newell	116
Cross-Cuts and Arias: The Language of Film and Its Impact on Opera Kevin Stephens	149
Opera on Optical Video Disc, or the Latest (and Final?) Avatar of the Gesamtkunstwerk Pierre Bellemare	173
Wunderkammer : Light as a Scenographic and Dramaturgical Tool in Opera Hansjörg Schmidt	198

---

Opera, Art and Industrial Production: Lighting at the Royal Opera House, London Nick Hunt	212
After The Twilight of the Gods : Opera Experiments, New Media and the Opera of the Future Michael Earley	229
About the Contributors	249
Index	251