

Contents

Introduction	vii
Bengt Ankarloo and Stuart Clark
PART 1: WITCH TRIALS IN CONTINENTAL EUROPE
1560–1660	1
William Monter, Northwestern University
Montgaillard, 1643	3
Features of Continental Witch Trials	6
Witchcraft and the Reformations	10
Three-quarters German? European Witch Trials 1560–1660	12
A German Sonderweg ?	16
1563: Weyer and Wiesensteig	18
Germany's 'Superhunts' (1586–1639)	22
A Bavarian Sonderweg ?	29
Confessionalism and Appellate Justice in the Empire	31
The 'Lotharingian Corridor' and Francophone Witch-hunts	34
Witch-hunting in the Kingdom of France	40
Witchcraft and the Mediterranean Inquisitions	44
Witch-hunting after 1650: New and Old Patterns	49
PART 2: WITCH TRIALS IN NORTHERN EUROPE
1450–1700	53
Bengt Ankarloo, Lund University
Introduction	55
The Rise of Government and the Judicial Revolution: Accusatorial versus Inquisitorial Regimes	63
Consolidation of Patriarchal Social Relations	70
Development of Theology and Demonology	72
Social Tensions on the Local Level	73
The Sixteenth Century: From Sorcery to Witchcraft	75
Witchcraft by Regions	76
Conclusion	93

PART 3: WITCHCRAFT AND MAGIC IN EARLY MODERN CULTURE	97
Stuart Clark, University of Wales Swansea
Chapter 1: Popular Magic	99
Magic at Work	99
The Meaning of Magic	105
Maleficium and Magic	112
Religious Reformation and Popular Magic	116
Chapter 2: Demonology	122
The Literature of Witchcraft	122
Witchcraft and Intellectual History	132
The Politics of Witchcraft Belief	137
Languages of Witchcraft	143
Chapter 3: Intellectual Magic	147
‘The Greatest Profoundnesse of Natural Philosophie’	147
Intellectual Magic and the Scientific Revolution	154
Natural Magic and Demonic Magic	160
Magic and Politics	167
Bibliography	171
Index	187