

Contents

Preface xi

- I Jerks and Excuses 1
 - 1 A Theory of Jerks 3
 - 2 Forgetting as an Unwitting Confession of Your Values 15
 - 3 The Happy Coincidence Defense and The-Most-You-Can-Do Sweet Spot 17
 - 4 Cheeseburger Ethics (or How Often Do Ethicists Call Their Mothers?) 21
 - 5 On Not Seeking Pleasure Much 33
 - 6 How Much Should You Care about How You Feel in Your Dreams? 37
 - 7 Imagining Yourself in Another's Shoes versus Extending Your Love 39
 - 8 Is It Perfectly Fine to Aim for Moral Mediocrity? 43
 - 9 A Theory of Hypocrisy 49
 - 10 On Not Distinguishing Too Finely among Your Motivations 53
 - 11 The Mush of Normativity 59
 - 12 A Moral Dunning-Kruger Effect? 63

- 13 The Moral Compass and the Liberal Ideal in Moral Education 69
- II Cute AI and Zombie Robots 73
- 14 Should Your Driverless Car Kill You So Others May Live? 75
- 15 Cute AI and the ASIMO Problem 79
- 16 My Daughter's Rented Eyes 85
- 17 Someday, Your Employer Will Technologically Control Your Moods 89
- 18 Cheerfully Suicidal AI Slaves 93
- 19 We Would Have Greater Moral Obligations to Conscious Robots than to Otherwise Similar Humans 97
- 20 How Robots and Monsters Might Destroy Human Moral Systems 101
- 21 Our Possible Imminent Divinity 107
- 22 Skepticism, Godzilla, and the Artificial Computerized Many-Branching You 111
- 23 How to Accidentally Become a Zombie Robot 117
- III Regrets and Birthday Cake 127
- 24 Dreidel: A Seemingly Foolish Game That Contains the Moral World in Miniature 129
- 25 Does It Matter If the Passover Story Is Literally True? 133
- 26 Memories of My Father 137
- 27 Flying Free of the Deathbed, with Technological Help 141
- 28 Thoughts on Conjugal Love 145
- 29 Knowing What You Love 149

- 30 The Epistemic Status of Deathbed Regrets 153
- 31 Competing Perspectives on One's Final,
Dying Thought 157
- 32 Profanity Inflation, Profanity Migration, and the Paradox of Prohibition (or I Love You, "Fuck") 161
- 33 The Legend of the Leaning Behaviorist 165
- 34 What Happens to Democracy When the Experts
Can't Be Both Factual and Balanced? 167
- 35 On the Morality of Hypotenuse Walking 171
- 36 Birthday Cake and a Chapel 175
- IV Cosmic Freaks 179
- 37 Possible Psychology of a Matrioshka Brain 181
- 38 A Two-Seater Homunculus 189
- 39 Is the United States Literally Conscious? 195
- 40 Might You Be a Cosmic Freak? 201
- 41 Choosing to Be That Fellow Back Then: Voluntarism
about Personal Identity 207
- 42 How Everything You Do Might Have Huge Cosmic
Significance 213
- 43 Penelope's Guide to Defeating Time, Space, and Causation 217
- 44 Goldfish-Pool Immortality 223
- 45 Are Garden Snails Conscious? Yes, No, or Gong 229
- V Kant versus the Philosopher of Hair 237
- 46 Truth, Dare, and Wonder 239
- 47 Trusting Your Sense of Fun 243
- 48 What's in People's Stream of Experience during Philosophy Talks? 247

- 49 Why Metaphysics Is Always Bizarre 253
- 50 The Philosopher of Hair 259
- 51 Obfuscatory Philosophy as Intellectual Authoritarianism and Cowardice 263
- 52 Kant on Killing Bastards, Masturbation,
Organ Donation, Homosexuality, Tyrants, Wives, and Servants 267
- 53 Nazi Philosophers, World War I, and the Grand
Wisdom Hypothesis 273
- 54 Against Charity in the History of Philosophy 283
- 55 Invisible Revisions 289
- 56 On Being Good at Seeming Smart 291
- 57 Blogging and Philosophical Cognition 295
- 58 Will Future Generations Find Us
Morally Loathsome? 305
- Acknowledgments 311
- Notes 315
- References 335
- Index 363