

Table of Contents

Editor's Introduction: The View from Erewhon	1
--	---

KINCH HOEKSTRA

Introduction: The Guiding Ideas	5
---------------------------------	---

THE BIRTH OF ETHICS

Chapter 1: Reconstructing Morality	13
1.1 Reconstructing ethics naturalistically	17
1.2 Conditions on a successful reconstruction	32
1.3 Reconstructive analysis illustrated	50
Chapter 2: Ground Zero	57
2.1 On what is necessarily present	60
2.2 On what is saliently absent	71
2.3 Excuses and exemptions	80
Chapter 3: Committing to Others	85
3.1 The avowal of belief	85
3.2 The avowal of desire and intention	101
3.3 The pledging of intention	113
Chapter 4: Committing with Others	121
4.1 The means of co-avowing attitudes	122
4.2 The conversational need to co-avow	128
4.3 The confidence co-avowal requires	134
4.4 Bounded and unbounded co-avowal	139
4.5 Co-avowing and co-pledging intentions	143
Chapter 5: Discovering Desirability	149
5.1 Desirability characterized	150
5.2 The view from within avowal	158
5.3 The view from within co-avowal	167

5.4 A breakthrough and a shortfall	177
5.5 Toward the morally desirable	183
Chapter 6: Discovering Responsibility	197
6.1 Responsibility characterized	198
6.2 Recognition, exhortation, reprimand	214
6.3 Theories of responsibility	230
Chapter 7: Morality Reconstructed	241
7.1 Moral metaphysics	243
7.2 Moral semantics	252
7.3 Moral epistemology	259
7.4 Expanding moral concepts	270
7.5 Moral psychology	277
7.6 Moral theory	286
Conclusion: The Claims in Summary	299

COMMENTS

Commentary on Philip Pettit's The Birth of Ethics	333
MICHAEL TOMASELLO

REPLY

Reply to Michael Tomasello's Commentary	347
---	-----

PHILIP PETTIT

References	359
Name Index	371
General Index	373