

Contents

Preface	i-ii
A. Background to the International Code	1
A brief history	1
Adoption of the Code	2
Relevance of the Code today	2
Overview of the Code.....	4
Giving effect to the Code	5
Understanding the Code	5
How the Code affects health workers, health facilities and professional associations.....	6
B. Why breastfeeding is important	8
Breastfeeding after the first six months	9
Key messages from The Lancet Series on Breastfeeding.....	9
Reduced healthcare costs from increased breastfeeding.....	10
C. Scope of the Code	11
Interpreting Article 2	12
Complementary foods.....	13
What is meant by "foods for infants and young children" in the 2016 Guidance.....	13
D. Handling information and educational materials	14
Need for unbiased information free of commercial influence	15
Manipulated information.....	16
How to evaluate company materials.....	16
Information to health professionals	18
Shifting the perspective on the "benefits and superiority of breastfeeding".....	18
When formula is necessary.....	19
Dealing with the problem of intrinsic contamination of powdered infant formula.....	20
E. Forbidden business in the health sector	21
How promotion is channelled through the health care system	23
'Educating' mothers.....	24
Supplies – Free now, pay later.....	25
Donations of equipment and materials	26
F. Dangerous liaisons: The health worker-industry relationship	27
Minimising the impact of commercial promotion.....	28
Myths of small gifts	29
Samples for professional evaluation or research	30
Problems with sponsorship and disclosures.....	31
Understanding conflicts of interest	31
What does the phrase "welcomes with appreciation" in WHA 69.9 [2016] mean?	32
Drawing the line between the unacceptable and the permissible.....	33
Taking a stand against sponsorship of events	34