

Contents

	Preface	page xiii
	Table of legislative measures	xv
	Table of cases	xxii
1	An introduction to English sentencing	1
1.1	Courts and crimes	1
1.2	The available sentences	3
1.3	The general statistical background	7
1.4	What is sentencing and where can it be found?	10
1.5	The formal sources of sentencing decisions	19
1.6	Informal influences on sentencing practice	42
2	Sentencing and the constitution	54
2.1	The separation of powers in sentencing	54
2.2	The constitutional position of the Sentencing Council	58
2.3	The judiciary, the executive and sentencing policy	64
2.4	The Judicial College	67
2.5	The position of the magistracy	68
2.6	European Union law	70
2.7	European human rights law	71
2.8	Conclusions	73
3	Sentencing aims, principles and policies	75
3.1	The aims of the criminal justice system	75
3.2	The role of the state	76
3.3	The rationales of sentencing	80
3.4	Some principles and policies	100
3.5	Sentencing rationales in practice: deterrence	105
3.6	The role of public opinion	109
3.7	Conclusions	111

4	Elements of proportionality	112
4.1	The proportionality principle	112
4.2	Opinions about offence-seriousness	114
4.3	Developing parameters of ordinal proportionality	116
4.4	Offence-seriousness in practice	123
4.5	Individual culpability	157
4.6	Proportionality and offence-seriousness	159
5	Aggravation and mitigation	163
5.1	Some preliminary problems of principle	163
5.2	Aggravation as increased seriousness	165
5.3	Mitigation as diminished seriousness	176
5.4	Personal mitigation	178
5.5	Mitigation and aggravation in practice	198
5.6	Conclusions	202
6	Persistence, prevention and prediction	205
6.1	Historical introduction	205
6.2	Four approaches to punishing persistence	207
6.3	Previous convictions and the Criminal Justice Act 2003	216
6.4	The problem of 'professional' criminals	226
6.5	Persistent petty offenders	228
6.6	Civil preventive orders	229
6.7	Minimum sentences and selective incapacitation	233
6.8	'Dangerous offenders' and the 2012 Act	237
6.9	Conclusion	248
7	Equality before the law	250
7.1	The principle and its challengers	250
7.2	Race	252
7.3	Gender	257
7.4	Employment status	261
7.5	Financial circumstances	263
7.6	Social status	266
7.7	Equality, parsimony and risk	266
8	Multiple offenders	272
8.1	Charging the multiple offender	273
8.2	The problems of sentencing multiple offenders	276
8.3	Guidelines on sentencing multiple offenders	279
8.4	Totality: time for a fresh start?	287

9	Custodial sentencing	294
9.1	The state of the prisons	295
9.2	The use of imprisonment	299
9.3	Principles for the use of custodial sentences	303
9.4	On the cusp of custody: short custodial sentences and suspended sentences	310
9.5	Medium-to-long custodial sentences: release on licence	323
9.6	Long custodial sentences	325
9.7	Demographic features of the prison population	328
9.8	Conclusions	333
10	Non-custodial sentencing	336
10.1	A brief history	336
10.2	The absolute discharge	338
10.3	Conditional discharges and bind-overs	339
10.4	Compensation orders	340
10.5	Fines	345
10.6	The community sentence	357
10.7	Deferment of sentence	372
10.8	Conclusions	373
11	Ancillary orders and civil preventive orders	377
11.1	The statutory sentencing framework	377
11.2	Preventive and punitive orders	378
11.3	Punitive privatory orders	380
11.4	Reparative orders	381
11.5	Preventive orders	382
11.6	Revisiting the nature of the orders	391
11.7	Sentencing for breach of a preventive order	395
12	Special sentencing powers	397
12.1	Young offenders	397
12.2	Young adult offenders	410
12.3	Mentally disordered offenders	412
13	Procedural issues at sentencing	423
13.1	The factual basis for sentencing	424
13.2	Police antecedents statements	430
13.3	The role of the prosecution	430
13.4	Pre-sentence reports	432
13.5	Defence speech in mitigation	434

294	4	13.6	The obligation to give reasons for sentence	435
295		13.7	The role of the victim	438
299		14	Sentencing, guidelines and the punitive state	445
303		14.1	The responsibility of sentencing	445
310		14.2	Rule-of-law values, discretion and guidelines	448
323		14.3	Guidelines and penal moderation	455
328		14.4	Risk, prevention and public protection	456
328	5	14.5	Stepping back from the punitive state	459
333			Appendix A: Selected statutory provisions	461
336			Appendix B: Statistical tables	465
336			Appendix C: Sentencing guidelines	476
338			Bibliography	484
339			Index	509
340
345	6		Persistence, prevention and restorative justice	505
357		6.1	Historical introduction	505
372		6.2	Deterrence of sentence	507
373		6.3	Previous convictions and sentencing	512
377		6.4	The problem of parole	526
377		6.5	Persistent offenders	528
377		6.6	The statutory sentencing framework	529
378		6.7	Preventive and punitive orders	532
380		6.8	Punitive preventive orders	537
381		6.9	Reparative orders	542
382			Preventive orders
391	7		Revisiting the nature of the least restrictive alternative	550
392		7.1	Sentencing for breach of a preventive order	550
397		7.2	Race	552
397		7.3	Gender	557
397		7.4	Young offenders	561
410		7.5	Young adult offenders	563
412		7.6	Mentally disordered offenders	566
423		7.7	Equality	566
423			Procedural issues at sentencing
424	8		Multisystemic offenders	572
430		8.1	The factual basis for sentencing	572
430		8.2	Police antecedents	572
432		8.3	The role of the prosecution	572
434		8.4	Presentence reports	579
434		8.5	Defence speech in mitigation	582