

Table of Contents

Table of Cases	xiii
Table of Treaties	xvii
Introduction	1
Wartime Collaboration: Informers and Collaborators	5
The Laws of Armed Conflict	9
Structure of the Book	13
1. History and Practice of Collaboration in Armed Conflict	16
1.1 Informers	17
1.1.1 Second World War	20
1.1.2 Contemporary Conflicts	22
1.1.3 Non-State Armed Groups	28
1.2 Combatants and Detainees	31
1.3 Bureaucratic Collaboration	39
1.4 Aiding the Enemy	47
2. International Humanitarian Law on the Recruitment and Use of Informers and Collaborators	52
2.1 Informers	55
2.1.1 Brussels Declaration 1874	58
2.1.2 Hague Regulations 1899 and 1907	61
2.1.3 Geneva Conventions 1949 and Additional Protocols 1977	70
2.2 Participation in Military Activities	79
2.3 Bureaucratic Collaboration	89
2.4 Aiding the Enemy	97
3. Individual Status under International Humanitarian Law	102
3.1 Civilians	104
3.1.1 Civilian Informers as Spies	104
3.1.2 Direct Participation in Hostilities	108
3.1.3 Protected Persons	116
3.2 Members of Armed Forces	124
4. Wartime Trial and Treatment of Collaborators	131
4.1 'The Gruesome Repercussions of Collaborating'	132
4.1.1 Second World War	134
4.1.2 Contemporary Conflicts	138
4.2 International Humanitarian Law's Blind Spot?	142
4.2.1 The Scope of War Crimes	143

4.2.2	The Evolving Law of War Crimes and Crimes against Humanity	145
4.2.3	Common Article 3 Expanded?	150
4.3	Fair Trials and Capital Punishment	155
4.3.1	Non-State Armed Groups	162
5.	Human Rights, National Regulation, and Armed Conflict	171
5.1	International Human Rights Law	173
5.2	National Approaches to the Regulation of Informers	184
5.2.1	The Case of Northern Ireland	190
5.2.1.1	Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act, 2000	195
5.3	Rights in Conflict	201
	Conclusion	211
	Select Bibliography	219
	Index	229