

Contents

Contents

Introduction to “The 1959 Tibetan Uprising Documents”

Overview of “The 1959 Tibetan Uprising Documents”

The Publishing Concept of the China Secrets Series

General Introduction to the China Secrets series

Dedication

1. Events Leading to the March 1959 Uprising

- The Deployment of the Chinese Army
- The Tibetan resistance units in Lhasa
- Chinese Intelligence before March 1959
- The Tibet Military District Report for 1957
- The Chinese Communist Party and Army Organization
- The Chinese Army Structure

2. The Uprising in Lhasa

- Overview
- Chinese Military Operations
- The Norbulingka
- The Potala and the Chakpori Hill
- The Barkhor
- The Ramoche

3. The Dateline of Events

- The Start of the Fighting

4. Military Operations in Southern Tibet

- The Battle for Duo Dzong
- The Typical Regiment Level Report

5. The Human Losses of the Chinese Army

- Accidents, Desertion, and Suicides

6. The Human Losses Among Tibetans

7. Rape, Plunder, Theft by the Chinese Army

- Rape, Plunder, and Theft

8. Chinese Intelligence Operations

- Intelligence obtained by codebreaking

- Agents inside the Tibetan Resistance

9. The Chinese Air Force

10. Conclusions on the 1959 Uprising in Tibet

11. Appendix 1: Secret Classifications

12. Appendix 2: Maps of Lhasa from 1997

13. Appendix 3: Border Traffic Maps with India

14. Appendix 4: The Secret Indian Support for China

15. Appendix 5: Chinese General Staff Maps of Tibet

16. Appendix 6: The "China Secrets" Titles Planned as of June 2018

Bibliography