

Crown of Creation is a powerful musical statement, representative of the band during its peak songwriting and performing years. Crown features tightly-structured songs, a la the Airplane's second album, Surrealistic Pillow. But, like After Bathing at Baxter's, the late 1967 follow-up to that rock cornerstone, there was plenty of room for experimentation, vaulting the Airplane to the next plateau. Many consider it their greatest recorded achievement.
