

Contents

---

Acknowledgments xi

A Note on Citations xiii

Introduction: Perception and Its Development 3

KIRSTEN JACOBSON AND JOHN RUSSON

Part I: Passivity and Intersubjectivity

1 Freedom and Passivity: Attention, Work, and Language 25

JOHN RUSSON

2 The Image and the Workspace: Merleau-Ponty and Levinas on Passivity and Rhythmic Subjectivity 40

MARIA TALERO

3 The "Entre-Deux" of Emotions: Emotions as Institutions 51

KYM MACLAREN

4 Perceiving through Another: Incorporation and the Child Perceiver 81

SUSAN M. BREDLAU

Part II: Generality and Objectivity

5 Neglecting Space: Making Sense of a Partial Loss of One's World through a Phenomenological Account of the Spatiality of Embodiment 101

KIRSTEN JACOBSON

- 6 Moving into Being: The Motor Basis of Perception, Balance, and Reading 123
DON BEITH
- 7 On the Nature of Space: Getting from Motricity to Reflection and Back Again 142
NOAH MOSS BRENDER
- 8 Merleau-Ponty and the Phenomenology of Natural Time 159
DAVID CIAVATTA

Part III: Meaning and Ambiguity

- 9 Institution, Expression, and the Temporality of Meaning in Merleau-Ponty 193
DAVID MORRIS
- 10 Implications of Merleau-Ponty's Account of Binocularity 221
ÖMER AYGÜN
- 11 Alterity and Expression in Merleau-Ponty: A Response to Levinas 242
SCOTT MARRATTO

Part IV: Expression

- 12 Aesthetic Ideas: Developing the Phenomenology of Merleau-Ponty with the Art of Matta-Clark 253
MATTHEW J. GOODWIN
- 13 Flesh as the Space of Mourning: Maurice Merleau-Ponty Meets
Ana Mendieta 272
STEFAN KRISTENSEN
- 14 Phenomenology and the Body Politic: Merleau-Ponty, Cézanne, and Democracy 283
PETER COSTELLO

15 Phenomenology as First-Order Perception: Speech, Vision, and Reflection in Merleau-Ponty 308

LAURA MCMAHON

Bibliography 339

Contributors 361

Index 367