

Table of Contents

Introduction .....	5
1 University Settings and Intertextual Perspectives in the Novels of the 1980s .....	15
1.1 Coming from Behind as a British Jewish Campus Novel .....	16
1.2 “Prurient little Victorian ratbag”? Dealing with the Shadow of Thomas Hardy in Peeping Tom .....	27
1.3 An Englishman’s Quest to Australia in Redback .....	38
2 Revisiting the Old Testament in The Very Model of a Man . .....	49
3 Sex, Class and the Erasure of Jewishness in No More Mr Nice Guy and Who’s Sorry Now? .....	61
4 Variations on Jewish Themes .....	78
4.1 “Life is but a tsatske and tomorrow we may die”: The Tragicomedy of The Mighty Walzer . .....	78
4.2 “The most Jewish novel by anybody, anywhere”: Kalooki Nights . .....	88
4.3 Jewishness as a Lesson in Humanity: Self-Acceptance and Empathy in The Finkler Question .....	98
5 Lives in and beyond Fiction in The Act of Love and Zoo Time . .....	108
6 Imagining the Future, Reimagining the Past .....	116
6.1 The Holocaust as the Unspoken Future in J .....	116
6.2 The Merchant of Venice as an Early 21st Century British Jewish Novel: Shylock Is My Name . .....	120
6.3 “An affront to writers everywhere”: A Hypothetical Exploration of Donald Trump’s Life in Pussy .....	132

7 Aging, Gender and Memory in The Making of Henry and Live a Little .....144

Conclusion .....149

Works Cited .....152

    Works by Howard Jacobson .....152

    Secondary sources.....153