

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
Note on Names and Transliteration	xi
Introduction	1
Anchoring the Subject	4
The Current State of Research	5
Structure and Methodology	9
1 The Quest for the Portents of the Hour	15
Key Apocalyptic Terms and Notions	18
The Main Players of the Muslim Apocalypse	27
Apocalyptic Sources and Historic Manifestations	31
2 Muslim Preachers of the Approaching End	41
From Dusty Bookshelves to Spiritual Blockbusters	43
Modern Muslim Apocalyptic Creativity	49
The Jihadist Fuse and the Millennial Charge?	55
Apocalyptic Messengers and Forerunners	62

3 The Topography of the Last Days	80
From the East to Jerusalem	82
Symbolism and Imagery of the Apocalypse	96
4 The Spark Has Been Lit Here in Iraq	111
The Apocalyptic March	113
From Dābiq	131
To Rome	147
5 The Countdown to the Apocalypse	172
They Plot, but Allah Also Plots	175
The Islamic Armageddon	188
How to Sell the Apocalypse?	197
6 A Feeble Folk to Whom No Concern is Accorded	210
The Apocalypse as a Battlefield	211
Sunni ‘Apocalypses Light’	216
Doomsday Visions of the Shiites	230
7 The Hour as Goal and Vehicle: A Summary of ISIS     Apocalypticism	241
Appendices
1 A Brief Glossary of Muslim Apocalyptic and Eschatological Vocabulary	261
2 A Comprehensive Chronological Overview of the ISIS Phenomenon	266
3 An ISIS ‘Apocalyptic Reader’	269
4 Overview Map	282
Bibliography	283
Index	297