

Scan to view this journal
on your mobile device

Contents

Editorial

339

I.CON Keynote

Robert O. Keohane. Nominal democracy? Prospects for democratic global governance

343

Articles

Matthias Klatt. Positive rights: Who decides? Judicial review in balance

354

Vanessa MacDonnell. The civil servant’s role in the implementation of constitutional rights

383

Kristen Stilt. Contextualizing constitutional Islam: The Malayan experience

407

Christopher McCrudden. Transnational culture wars

434

Symposium: Through the lens of time: Global Administrative Law after 10 years

J.H.H. Weiler. GAL at a crossroads: Preface to the Symposium

463

Sabino Cassese. Global administrative law: The state of the art

465

Christoph Möllers. Ten years of global administrative law

469

Lorenzo Casini. Beyond drip-painting? Ten years of GAL and the emergence of a global administration

473

Benedict Kingsbury. Three models of “distributed administration”: Canopy, baobab, and symbiote

478

Giulio Napolitano. Going global, turning back national: Towards a cosmopolitan administrative law?

482

Edoardo Chiti. Where does GAL find its legal grounding?

486

Mario Savino. What if global administrative law is a normative project?

492

Richard B. Stewart. The normative dimensions and performance of global administrative law

499

Critical Review of Governance

Swati Jhaveri and Anne Scully-Hill. Executive and legislative reactions to judicial declarations of constitutional invalidity in Hong Kong: Engagement, acceptance or avoidance?

507

Review Essay

Ariel L. Bendor and Tal Sela. How proportional is proportionality?
Review of Aharon Barak, Proportionality. Constitutional Rights and their Limitations

530

Book Reviews

Emily Zackin. Looking for Rights in All the Wrong Places: Why State
Constitutions Contain America's Positive Rights (Solongo Wandan)

545

Elke Cloots. National Identity in EU Law (Monika Polzin)

548

Ayten Gündoğdu. Rightlessness in an Age of Rights. Hannah Arendt and the Contemporary Struggles of Migrants (Dana Schmalz)

551