

|                     |    |  |
|---------------------|----|--|
| ■ IN BRIEF          | 6  | U.K. vs. Huawei ● Look, up in the sky! ● Bank numbers  |
| ■ OPINION           | 7  | How India should handle its China conundrum  |
| ■ AGENDA            | 7  | A housing rebound? ● South Korea GDP ● Stanley Cup   |
| ■ REMARKS           | 8  | The cookies crumble, and web ads will never be the same  |
| 1 BUSINESS   | 12 | Big Tobacco wants you to suck these, not smoke those   |
|                     | 14 | Flavor makers swoop down on the faux meat market   |
| 2 TECHNOLOGY | 16 | A rush for monitoring bracelets as prisoners get sprung  |
|                     | 18 | Small merchants in Asia discover the web   |
| 3 FINANCE    | 20 | A fund full of songs turns hair metal into an asset class  |
|                     | 22 | Ralph Hamers goes from populist ING to highfalutin UBS   |
| 4 ECONOMICS  | 24 | ▼ Not much of that $2 trillion has reached neighborhoods where it's needed most, like Cleveland's East Side |

|                    |    |  |
|--------------------|----|--|
| 5 POLITICS  | 28 | ICE backs off, but foreign students are still in a bind    |
|                    | 30 | Australia's many tactics for countering China's onslaught  |
| + SOLUTIONS | 33 | Lacking firm Covid guidelines, companies craft their own   |
|                    | 35 | What the virus will do to architecture and design (plenty) |
|                    | 36 | Hurricane season, medical supplies, and a possible crisis  |
| ■ PURSUITS         | 59 | Are streaming films finally getting some respect?          |
|                    | 62 | A fall preview for stay-at-homes, meaning everybody        |
|                    | 64 | PlayStation vs. Xbox: The rematch, and it'll be brutal     |
|                    | 66 | Zone out and Zen in with Ryan Neil's bonsai videos         |
|                    | 67 | For gaming, the best seat in the house                     |
| ■ LAST THING       | 68 | The NCAA just won't quit blocking college athlete pay      |

■ DEBRIEF

38 Betterment's Jon Stein on robo-advising, goal-setting, and ignoring the market

---

FEATURES

42 The World Is Waiting
Oxford's Sarah Gilbert may be closest to a Covid-19 vaccine

48 'This Isn't That Bad'
How the pandemic has unfolded for a Wall Street titan

54 You Can Beat a Dead Horse
The Bronco, and the obsessive Ford crew that roused it back to life