

Contents

---

Acknowledgments ix

Chapter 1

Something between a Preface and an Introduction 1

1.1 Three Traditional Epistemological Projects 1

1.2 Finding Connections: The Psychology of Reasoning, the Evaluation of Inquiry, and the Analysis of Intentional Content 4

1.3 The Search for a Theory of Cognitive Evaluation: Clearing the Ground 17

1.4 Epistemic Pragmatism 24

Chapter 2

Good Reasoning and Intentional Content: How Irrational Can We Be? 29

2.1 Quine's Argument and Beyond 30

2.2 The Case for Minimal Rationality 39

2.3 Why Does Intentional Description Presuppose Rationality? 43

2.4 The Argument for Limits to Irrationality and Why Those Limits Are Uninteresting 50

Chapter 3

Evolution and Rationality 55

3.1 In Search of an Argument 56

3.2 Truth, Reliability, and Natural Selection 60

3.3 Evolution and Optimal Design 63

3.4 Some Conclusions 70

3.5 Innateness, Inference, and the Prospect for Cognitive Pluralism 71

3.6 Genetic Diversity and Cognitive Diversity 72

Chapter 4

Reflective Equilibrium and Analytic Epistemology 75

4.1 Reflective Equilibrium as a Criterion for Assessing Cognitive Processes 76

4.2	Cohen's Argument	79
4.3	Does the Reflective Equilibrium Account Capture Our Notion of Justification?	83
4.4	A "Neo-Goodmanian" Project	86
4.5	Some Questionable Presuppositions of the Neo-Goodmanian Project	87
4.6	Against Analytic Epistemology	89
4.7	Conclusions and Connections	99

Chapter 5

Do We Really Care Whether Our Beliefs Are True? 101

5.1	Getting Started	101
5.2	Belief and Truth	103
5.3	The Interpretation Function: A Sketch of a Theory	106
5.4	The Limits and Idiosyncrasies of Causal/Functional Interpretation	110
5.5	True Belief, Intrinsic Value, and Instrumental Value	118
5.6	Generalizing the Argument to Other Interpretation Functions	124

Chapter 6

A Pragmatic Account of Cognitive Evaluation 129

6.1	Toward Pragmatism	129
6.2	Pragmatism and Relativism	134
6.3	Pragmatism and Circularity	145
6.4	Interpreting Psychological Studies of Reasoning: Pragmatism Applied	149

Notes 159

References 169

Index 177