

TABLE OF CONTENTS

RECORD's Ljubljana conference – a summary Djuro Kutlaca	7
I. CORPORATE DEMAND FOR R&D
Technology driven research and establishing of technological networks. The case of Slovenia Peter Stanovnik	19
Remarks on corporate demand for R&D in the Czech Republic Adolf Filacek	29
Corporate demand for R&D in Hungary Gábor Papanek	43
Corporate demand for R&D in Slovakia Stefan Zajac	53
Corporate demand for R&D in Ireland. The perspective of an applied research body William J. Barry	65
II. QUANTITATIVE BENCHMARKING CENTRES OF RESEARCH IN THE ACCESSION COUNTRIES
Experience of the RECORD pilot quantitative benchmarking surveys Balázs Borsi – Wouter Mensink	73
Benchmarking RTD organisations in the Czech Republic: experience from the RECORD quantitative survey Adolf Filacek	99
Benchmarking RTD organisations in Hungary: the lessons learned in the RECORD quantitative survey Katalin Dévai	123
Measuring performance of Polish research organisations according to the RECORD methodology Krzysztof J. Kurzydłowski – Elzbieta Adamowicz	131
Quantitative benchmarking of centres of research in Slovakia Martin Kedro – Margitá Slimáková – Peter Ondrejček	141
Benchmarking RTD organisations in Slovenia: experience of the RECORD quantitative survey Hedvika Usenik	151
III. NEW CASE STUDY EXPERIENCE WITH THE RECORD BENCHMARKS
The first experience with compiling the RECORD Map Gábor Papanek – Wouter Mensink – Aron Perényi	163
Biotechnology and aeronautics: two examples of excellence in Czech research Jiri Loudín	171
Experience of qualitative data collection in Hungary János Kálmán, Ágnes Oszoli, István Szarvas et al., Balázs Borsi – György Dormán	179
Institute of Fundamental Technological Research (IFTR) Julita Jablecka	191
Faculty of Materials Science and Engineering as an example of a Centre of Excellence Elzbieta Adamowicz	199
IV. IMPROVING THE RECORD METHODOLOGY
A summary of the methodology debate Katalin Dévai	205
Measuring performance of social science research organisations within the context of the RECORD methodology Amir Fazlagic	215
Benchmarking Centres of Excellence and the OECD manuals of science and technology measurement Theodoros Papaioannou	229