

Contents

Prelude	ix
Introduction	xi
1 Deserts	1
Warrigal Waterhole, north-west Queensland: an oasis	1
Desert seed eaters	3
Budgerigars	6
South-west Queensland: locust swarms	9
Woodswallows and nomadism	10
Flock Bronzewings and Fairy Martins	12
The Sahel: arid woodland	13
The Quail-plover: of birding and twitching	14
Waza National Park and its panting birds	16
Waza: guineafowl and sandgrouse	18
The Atacama: the driest desert	21
Flamingos	22
Other memories of deserts	24
References	25
2 Rainforests	27
Western Cameroon: lowland tropical rainforest	27
When birding is tough: Picathartes	28
When birding is tough: Mt Kupé Bushshrike	30
Julatten, north Queensland: a magnet for birders	32
Mount Kinabalu, Sabah	32
Bamenda Highlands, Cameroon: vanishing birds	36
Mindo Valley, Ecuador: a jewel in the crown	37
Paz de las Aves: positive ecotourism news	38
Aguas Verdes, northern Peru: more positive ecotourism news	40
Acjanaco Pass Road, southern Peru: cloud forest	43
Andean Cock-of-the-Rock: leks	43
Top End, Australia: monsoon forests	45
Pittas: old passerines	45
Kibale Forest, Uganda: more pittas	48
Paluma, north Queensland: fragmented rainforest	48
Riflebirds and speciation	49
Cairns, north Queensland: hovering sunbird	50

Other memories of rainforests	52
References	53
3 Oceans and islands	55
The Galápagos: oceanic islands	55
'Darwin's finches'	55
Darwin's beach	60
Tasmania: a continental island	61
Island endemism	61
Tasmanian Scrubtit: an older endemic	63
The 'turbo chook': a cautionary tale	63
Lord Howe Island: a volcanic speck	65
Island extinctions	65
The Lord Howe Island Woodhen: almost not there and back again	66
Island breeding colonies: from Fernandina to Cape Town to Victoria to Chile	68
Chile's Chonos Archipelago: prolific seabirds	72
Wind soaring	73
Other memories of oceans and islands	74
References	76
4 Mountains	79
Torres del Paine NP: Andean Condors	79
Featherless heads	80
The awesome alula: making flight possible	82
Can birds smell?	84
K-selected breeders: 'have one kid, make sure it survives'	86
Colca Canyon: high-altitude birding	87
Soaring: ultimate flight	89
The Drakensbergs, Lesotho: snow in Africa	91
Bearded Vulture: digesting bones	92
Torres del Paine again: New World vultures	94
Unexpected origins	94
Flying high: how do they do it?	99
Other memories of mountains	101
References	103
Colour plates	107
5 Wetlands and rivers	123
Gum Swamp, New South Wales	123
r-selected breeders: 'have lots of kids, hope a couple survive'	124
Grey Teal and breeding triggers	127
Musk Ducks: a story of a duck's luck	128

Showing off in the water	130
Cocha Salvador, Peruvian Amazonia	130
Single-species Families	135
Birds eating their greens	139
Muscovy Ducks, and birds in service	141
Jerrabomberra Wetlands, Canberra	145
Preening	146
Other memories of wetlands and rivers	147
References	148
6 Suburbia	151
Canberra: crafty cockies	151
Learning to live in town	151
Canberra again: the Great Koel debate	157
Birds in a warming world	158
Melbourne Cricket Ground: a groggy gull	162
When birds collide	163
Canberra yet again: hybrid parrots	166
Becoming a species: it doesn't happen overnight!	166
Still in Canberra: pardalotes	170
Birds in burrows	172
Dinosaurs in my garden	174
Other memories of suburbia	175
References	177
7 Woodlands and grasslands	181
Great Western Woodlands, Western Australia: Emu family	181
Ratites, and the mysterious case of the flying elephant birds	182
Feathers: a bird's best friends	187
A bird's leg: a wonder of redesign	190
Extinction	192
High Veld, Wakkerstroom, South Africa: Widowbirds	199
Tall tails and true	200
Barkly Tableland, Northern Territory: grassy expanses	205
Wind hovering	206
Other memories of woodlands and grasslands	207
References	208
Bird species index	213
General index	221