

CONTENTS

Preface to the second edition ix

Introduction 1

01 Pioneers of persuasion 7

- An industry takes shape 8
- Early advertising agencies 10
- Arrow to the future 12
- The Hopkins approach 14
- Lasker's second choice 16

02 From propaganda to soap 19

- The legacy of J Walter Thompson 20
- An onomatopoeic agency 23
- Rubicam versus the Depression 25
- New sights, new sounds 28
- The end of the beginning 30

03 Madison Avenue aristocracy 33

- A British advertising agency in New York 35
- The science of selling 41

04 Creative revolutionaries 45

- Thinking small 49
- Murderers' row 52
- The revolution will be televised 54

05 The Chicago way 61

- An unhurried start 62
- Quite a character 65

- Cornflakes and cowboys 66
- The international era 70
- Life after Leo 71

06 The Brit pack 73

- The British hot shop 74
- Blockbusters in the basement 76
- Lowe and beyond 79
- The master planner 81
- A smashing agency 83
- The Saatchi saga begins 84
- Mrs Thatcher's ad agency 86

07 Eighties extravagance 89

- The Saatchi saga continues 90
- Jeans genius from BBH 93
- The gentleman copywriter 98
- The buccaneers of Venice Beach 102
- '1984' and the Super Bowl factor 104

08 The French connection 107

- The father of French advertising 109
- The man who said 'Non' 111
- Provocation and impact 113
- The house that Jacques built 115
- TBWA: absolutely European 119
- The seeds of disruption 122

09 European icons 127

- The graphic world of Armando Testa 128
- Copywriting, Italian style 131
- Blood, sweaters and tears 134
- The German conundrum 138

- 10 Media spins off 143
- The 24-carat idea of Gilbert Gross 143
 - From barter to Zenith 146
 - Turning back the clock 147
- 11 Consolidation incorporated 149
- Omnicom: the Big Bang 149
 - WPP: wired to the world 154
 - Interpublic: the horizontal ladder 159
 - Publicis: readjusting the compass 162
 - Havas: child of the information age 165
- 12 Japanese giants 171
- A short history of Dentsu 171
 - Advertising haiku-style 174
 - Soccer and Shiseido 176
 - The challenger agency 178
- 13 The alternatives 183
- Amsterbrand 184
 - Professional radicals 188
 - Far from the Madison crowd 190
 - Driving branded content 192
- 14 Dotcom boom and bust 197
- 15 Latin spirit 203
- The boys from Brazil 1: Washington Olivetto 204
 - The boys from Brazil 2: Marcello Serpa 207
 - The reign of Spain 209
- 16 International outposts 213
- Australia's favourite admen 217

- 17 Shooting stars 221
From pop to soda 223
- 18 Controversy in Cannes 227
The man behind Cannes 229
Counting the cost 231
- 19 New frontiers 233
Asian creativity 234
And so to China 236
- 20 The agency of the future 241
Content providers and inventors 245
Shape-shifting giants 248
- Conclusion 251
- References* 253
Index 255