

Contents

Chairmen and Contributors	vii
Preface	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
Section I: Social implications
1 Epilepsy care: the problem from child to adult Ian McKinlay	3
Discussion	11
2 The epidemiology of epilepsy in childhood Zarrina Kurtz, Pat Tookey and Euan Ross	13
Discussion	21
3 Education and epilepsy Peter J. Rogan	23
4 Driving and employment Jolyon R. Oxley	31
5 Personal relationships Leonard Thornton	39
Panel discussion	46
Section II: Therapies
6 When should anticonvulsant treatment be started? Simon Shorvon	53
Discussion	63
7 Social implications of drug treatment and withdrawal David Chadwick	65
Discussion	71
8 Cognitive function and epilepsy Julie Bullen	73
Discussion	79

9 Epilepsy, anticonvulsants and pregnancy
Martin J. Brodie 81
Discussion 91
10 New anticonvulsant drugs and their development
Pamela M. Crawford 93
Discussion 101
11 Temporal lobectomy in young people
Christopher B. T. Adams 103
12 Selecting the appropriate therapy
Sheila J. Wallace 113
Panel discussion 119

Section III: New areas of study in epilepsy

13 Recent developments in childhood non-convulsive status epilepticus
Gregory Stores 125
Discussion 131
14 Ambulatory EEG monitoring: a preliminary follow-up study
Theresa E. Powell, G. F. A. Harding and P. M. Jeavons 131
Discussion 139
15 New techniques in investigation
John Stephenson 141
Discussion 145
16 Photosensitive epilepsy and visual display units
Arnold J. Wilkins 147
Discussion 155

Questions and answers about photosensitive epilepsy:
a patient's guide
Arnold J. Wilkins and Janet Lindsay 157

Closing remarks
David W. Chadwick 161

Index 163