

Contents

Acknowledgements

To The Reader

Introduction

Chapter 1

Scientific Popularisation

- 1.1 A Historical Approach
- 1.2 A Conceptual Approach
- 1.3 A Sociological approach
- 1.4 The Language of Popularisation and its Characteristics

Chapter 2

The Television and Movie Documentary as a means of Scientific Popularisation

- 2.1 An Approach to the Concept of a Documentary
- 2.2 The Science Popularisation Documentary
 - 2.2.1 The Anthropological Documentary
 - 2.2.2 The Nature Documentary
 - a) The European Tradition
 - b) The North American Tradition

Chapter 3

Narrative and Dramatic Techniques

- 3.1 Reaching out to the Audience's Interest
 - 3.1.1 The Spatial Factor
 - 3.1.2 The Unusual, Strange or Unexpected
- 3.2 Narrative Techniques
 - 3.2.1 The Simplification of Content
 - a) The Treatment of Complex Scientific Matters
 - b) Suppressing Controversy
 - c) Reducing Dimensions
 - 3.2.2 Anthropomorphism
 - 3.2.3 Entertainment Factors

- 3.3 Dramatic Techniques
 - 3.3.1 Story Construction
 - 3.3.2 Considering Real Beings as Characters
 - 3.3.3 Elements of Conflict and Suspense

Chapter 4

Rhetorical Techniques

- 4.1 Scientific Documentary as Epideictic Discourse
- 4.2 Types of Rhetorical Argumentation Used
- 4.3 The production process (inventio, dispositio and elocutio)
- 4.4 Argumentation Through the Qualities of the Narrating Subject
 - 4.4.1 On Camera Statements
 - 4.4.2 Forms of Non-verbal Argumentation
- 4.5 Argumentation Aimed at the Audience's Disposition
- 4.6 Argumentation Through the Speech Itself
- 4.7 Rhetorical Figures
 - 4.7.1 Figures Facing the Public
 - 4.7.2 Figures dealing with the Subject Matter

Conclusions

References

Basic Bibliography

Index