

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
An eccentric dialogue	1
The question of parody	4
If not parody	7
PART I
The Menexenus, its persons, its problems	13
1 Synopsis of the dialogue	15
Opening dialogue (234a–236d)	15
Funeral speech (236d–249c)	16
Closing dialogue (249d–e)	19
2 Persons and dates of the dialogue	20
Socrates	20
Aspasia	31
Other tutors: Connus, Antiphon and Lamprus	37
Archinus and Dion	40
Menexenus	42
Pericles	45
3 The Athenian funeral speech	58
The genre: three cautions	58
The Menexenus against the backdrop of its genre	67
The funeral speech in Loraux	71
4 The Menexenus as parody, as improvement	77
The relationship between the two funeral speeches	77
Positive arguments: the Menexenus speech as improvement	82
Positive argument from precedent	85
Negative arguments: against the Menexenus speech as parody	88

PART II
Education and rhetoric	95
5 Scenes of instruction; Pericles' missed opportunities	97
Education and rhetoric	97
Pericles and moral education	99
Scenes of instruction in the Menexenus	103
Instruction as intrusion	111
6 Philosophical rhetoric	116
Logos and ergon	116
Praise	121
Improvisation	132
PART III
Myth and history	141
7 Myth	143
Stories of Athens	143
Mythic passages in the Menexenus	146
Plato's myths	150
Autochthony in Athens	157
Autochthony in Plato	162
Autochthony and nature in the Menexenus	166
Autochthony and human difference in the Menexenus	169
The meanings of autochthony	174
8 History	182
Philosophical history	182
Omissions and other distortions of history	183
The Menexenus and the historians	195
Order in history	199
Soul, city, world	201
A parody of history?	206
Conclusion: Buried in philosophy	214
The Menexenus's improvements to the funeral speech	214
The Menexenus and other dialogues	215
The Phaedrus	218
Bibliography	222
Index	231