

Contents

Contributors	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction	ix
1 Aristotle among the physicians C. B. SCHMITT	1
2 The changing fortunes of a traditional text: goals and strategies in sixteenth-century Latin editions of the Canon of Avicenna N. G. SIRAISSI	16
3 Berengario da Carpi and the use of commentary in anatomical teaching R. K. FRENCH	42
4 Humanist surgery V. NUTTON	75
5 Pharmacy in the republic of Venice in the sixteenth century R. PALMER	100
6 Explorations in renaissance writings on the practice of medicine A. WEAR	118
7 Jacques Dubois as a practitioner G. BAADER	146
8 The 'Paris Hippocratics': teaching and research in Paris in the second half of the sixteenth century I. M. LONIE	155
9 The generation of disease: occult causes and diseases of the total substance L. DEER RICHARDSON	175

10	Fabricius and the 'Aristotle project' in anatomical teaching and research at Padua	195
	A. CUNNINGHAM
11	Disputation and description in the renaissance pulse controversy	223
	J. J. BYLEBYL
12	Academicism versus empiricism in practical medicine in sixteenth-century Spain with regard to morisco practitioners	246
	L. GARCÍA-BALLESTER

	Notes	271
--	-------	-----

	Index	343
--	-------	-----