

Contents	vii
Abbreviations	xx

Introduction 1

CHAPTER I	International Conventions on Biodiversity of Relevance to the European Union
I	Introduction	10
II	The Convention on the Conservation of European Wildlife and Natural Habitats	11
I	Introduction	11
2	Territorial scope	11
3	General measures and conservation policies	13
4	Habitats and species	14
4.1	Habitats	14
4.2	Species	14
5	Protection measures	16
6	Protected areas: the Emerald Network	16
7	Protected areas: The European Diploma	18
III	The Convention on the Conservation of Migratory Species of Wild Animals	18
I	Introduction: the notion of migratory species and the objectives of the Convention	18
2	Migratory species in danger (Annex I CMS)	20
3	Annex II CMS and AGREEMENTS	21
4	Other species: adoption of agreements	23
5	Legal nature of the AGREEMENTS, "agreements" and other instruments	23
6	Implementation of the CMS	24
IV	The Convention on Wetlands of International Importance Especially as Waterfowl Habitat	25
I	Introduction	25
2	Notion of wetland	26
3	Designation of wetlands of international importance	27
4	Withdrawal of wetlands from the List	30
5	Planning for the conservation of listed wetlands: conservation and wise use	30
6	Surveillance	32
7	Concluding comments	33
CHAPTER 2	European Union Environmental Bases and Their Application in the Case of Biodiversity
I	Introduction: Genesis of EU Environmental Policy	36
II	Context And Purpose of EU Action In Environmental Matters	37
III	Objectives	39

IV	Principles	39
I	Sustainability	40
2	High level of protection	41
3	Principle of integration	42
4	Precautionary principle	44
5	Preventive action	48
6	Correction at source	48
7	The Polluter Pays principle	49
V	Distribution of Powers Between the EU and Member States in Environmental Matters	52
I	Types of competences	52
2	Principle of subsidiarity	54
3	International competence	54
4	Impact of WBD and HD on EU biodiversity competence	57
5	Criminal jurisdiction for the protection of the environment and biodiversity	57
VI	Legal Bases for the Adoption of Measures for Environment Protection	58
I	Importance of the legal bases	58
2	Environmental legal bases (Article 192 TFEU)	61
2.1	Actions	61
2.2	Areas subject to unanimous vote of the Member States	61
2.3	The action programmes	64
2.4	Other legal bases to be considered	64
2.4.1	Internal Market	64
2.4.2	Agriculture	65
2.4.3	Fisheries	66
2.4.4	Common commercial policy	67
2.4.5	Energy	67
2.5	The adoption of stricter measures	68
CHAPTER 3	The Scope of the Wild Birds Directive
I	Genesis and General Context of the Wild Birds Directive	72
I	Genesis of the WBD	72
2	Other international standards to be taken into account in the WBD	75
II	Structure of the WBD	75
III	Scope of Application	76
I	Territorial scope	76
2	Material scope: the concept of "species"	77
2.1	All wild birds	77
2.2	The concept of "species"	77
3	Material scope: birds in the wild and in captivity	80
4	Cross-border scope	81

5	Wild birds as “common heritage”	82
5.1	General remarks	82
5.2	The notion of “common heritage” in the case law of the CJEU	86
6	Common responsibility	88
7	The stand still clause in Article 13 WBD	88
CHAPTER 4	The Obligation to Classify SPAs: Substantive and Formal Matters
I	General Framework for the Obligations Set Out in the WBD	92
II	Legal Scope And Relationship Between Articles 3 & 4 WBD	93
I	General and priority measures to be adopted under Article 3 WBD	93
2	Relationship between Articles 3 and 4	94
III	SPA Classification: Scientific Criteria, Member States’ Margin of Appreciation and the Role of Zone Inventories	97
I	General matters	97
2	Member States’ margin of discretion in designating SPAs	99
2.1	Meaning	99
2.2	Case law derived from Case C-3/96, Commission v. the Netherlands	100
3	Legal status of the Inventories of Important Bird Areas (IBAs) in the EU	101
3.1	Doctrine established in Case C-3/96, Commission v. the Netherlands	102
3.2	Questioning of IBAs by Member States: unilateral amendments and gaps	103
4	Criteria for the classification of areas in IBAs	104
5	Role of state inventories	107
IV	Number of Species And Most Suitable Territories for the Designation of SPAs	107
I	Number of species for the purpose of SPA classification	107
2	Territories to be classified as SPAs	109
2.1	The reference to ‘the most suitable territories’ in Article 4(1) and (2) WBD	109
2.2	The ecosystem approach to SPA classification	112
2.3	Degraded areas and obligation to classify SPAs	113
2.4	Size of the most suitable territories	114
2.5	Ornithological criterion versus biogeographical regions	117
2.6	Territories eligible for designation as SPAs in a Member State compared with other Member States	118
3	The unavailability of taking socio-economic aspects into account when classifying SPAs	119
V	Obligation to Classify SPAs: Formal Issues	121
I	Designation of SPAs and obligation to adopt specific rules	121

2	Timing of Member States' obligations in respect of SPAs	122
2.1	Time frame for SPAs designation obligations	122
2.2	No time limit for SPAs designation	123
2.3	Designations subject to appeal and the time at which an SPA is deemed to qualify as such	124
3	Duty to publish SPA delimitation maps and to submit accurate cartography to the European Commission	125
VI	Declassification of SPAs	126
I	General matters	126
2	International Law	126
2.1	Ramsar Convention on Wetlands of International Importance	126
2.2	The Convention on the Conservation of European Wildlife and Natural Habitats	129
2.3	Biosphere Reserves	129
2.4	Barcelona Protocol concerning specially protected areas in the Mediterranean	131
3	The WBD	132
3.1	Cases C-57/89 R and C-57/89, Commission v. Germany (Leybucht) : application for interim relief for the cessation of work on a site	132
3.2	Case C-57/89: CJEU's doctrine on the possible declassification of an SPA	133
3.3	Subsequent case law concerning the declassification of SPAs	135
3.4	The application of Article 6 (3 and 4) HD for a possible declassification of an SPA	136
CHAPTER 5	Measures for the Protection of SPAs
I	General Matters	140
I	Measures required by Article 3 WBD	140
2	Measures required by Article 4 WBD	140
II	CJEU Case Law on Measures for the Protection of SPAs	141
I	Application of Member States' categories of protected areas	142
2	Application of general rules	143
3	Specific measures for birds	144
4	The duty to avoid deterioration: Scope of Article 4(4) WBD	144
4.1	Structure of Article 4(4) WBD	144
4.2	The notion of deterioration	145
5	The duty to avoid deterioration: relevant case law	148
5.1	Case C-355/90 (Santoña marshes)	148
5.2	Case C-166/97 (Seine Estuary)	151
5.3	Case C-96/98 (Marais Poitevin)	151
5.4	Case C-418/04, Commission v. Ireland	152
5.5	Case C-186/06, Commission v. Spain	153
5.6	Case C-441/17, Commission v. Poland	154

CHAPTER 6	Protection of Wild Birds in the WBD: Prohibitions and Exemptions
I	Structure of Prohibitions and Exemptions and Obligations to Transpose the WBD	156
I	Structure of prohibitions and exemptions in the WBD	156
2	Accurate implementation of WBD obligations	157
3	Application of different regulatory instruments and their adaptation to the WBD	158
4	The adoption of administrative and criminal penalties	159
II	General Prohibitions in Article 5 WBD	161
I	General prohibition against killing or capturing or disrupting	162
2	Prohibition of intentional destruction or damage to nests and eggs and the removal of nests, as well as the collection of eggs in the wild and their retention, even if empty	162
3	Keeping bird species, the hunting and capture of which is prohibited	163
4	Continual nature of some of the obligations in Article 5 WBD	164
5	Deliberateness of the activities prohibited in Article 5 WBD	164
III	The WBD and Hunting: General Issues	165
I	Introduction	165
2	Material object: wild birds that can be hunted	166
3	Guarantees regarding hunting in Article 7 WBD	167
3.1	General guarantees	167
3.2	Specific guarantees	168
3.2.1	Principles of wise use and ecologically balanced control	168
3.2.2	The compatibility of hunting with Article 2 WBD	170
IV	The WBD and Hunting Season	170
I	General remarks	170
2	General CJEU jurisprudence: Case C-435/92, Association pour la protection des animaux sauvages	172
2.1	Principle of complete protection and criteria for setting out closing periods	172
2.2	Difficulties in setting out staggered dates for different wild bird species	175
2.3	Hunting ban on different dates depending on different “regions”	178
3	Hunting ban and artificial division of the territory	179
4	The mating period as part of the breeding period of wild birds	180
5	Opening of hunting periods after the end of the “different” breeding and rearing stages	180

V	Prohibited Hunting Methods	181
I	General matters	181
2	Relevant CJEU case law	183
2.1	Cartridges in the gun magazine	183
2.2	Use of nets	184
VI	Trade in Wild Birds	185
I	General considerations	185
2	Material scope and content of the marketing ban	186
3	Marketing of wild birds and cross-border protection	187
3.1	Case C-169/89 (Van den Burg)	187
3.2	Contradictions in the Van den Burg judgment and cross-border protection	189
VII	Exceptions to the Prohibitions of the WBD	193
I	Introduction	193
2	The obligation to adopt another “satisfactory solution”	195
2.1	The requirement for transposition into Member State law	195
2.2	The “specific” nature of the other “satisfactory solution”	196
2.3	Case law on the application of the “other satisfactory solution” requirement	197
2.3.1	Breeding of birds in captivity	197
2.3.2	Hunting of birds beyond available hunting periods and replacement of some species by others	198
2.3.3	Hunting of birds beyond permissible hunting periods and artificial division of territory: initial case law and questionable subsequent changes	199
2.3.4	Hunting birds using prohibited methods and the comparison with other regions	201
VIII	Exceptions to the Prohibitions of the WBD	202
I	Public health and safety	202
2	Prevention of significant damage to crops, livestock, forests, fisheries and water	203
3	Protection of flora	204
4	The capture, keeping or other “judicious” use of certain birds in small numbers.	205
4.1	Possible justifications	205
4.2	Legal meaning of “small numbers”: burden of proof and effects	207
4.3	CJEU case law on Article 9(1)(c) WBD	210
5	Hunting periods absolutely incompatible with the exceptions of the WBD	212
IX	Administrative Requirements When Adopting Exemptions to the Prohibitions of the WBD	213
I	Requirements referred to in Article 9(2) WBD	213
2	Timing of exceptions and automatic renewals	213

	3	System of appeals against decisions taken under Article 9 WBD	214
	4	The European Commission's monitoring and data on the application of derogations	215
	X	Other Relevant Rules in the WBD	216
	1	Scientific research	216
	2	The introduction of species	217
	3	Reports on the implementation of the WBD	217
CHAPTER 7		Directive 92/43 on the Conservation of Natural Habitats and of Wild Fauna and Flora: Genesis, Structure and Scope
	I	General Issues of Directive 92/43	220
	1	Genesis	220
	2	Structure	221
	2.1	Definitions	221
	2.2	Objectives	222
	2.3	Legal system of protection	224
	II	Scope of the Directive	225
	1	Territorial scope	225
	2	Material scope	226
CHAPTER 8		Special Areas of Conservation
	I	Special Areas of Conservation: Relationship Between SCIs, SACs and SPAs	228
	II	The Natura 2000 Network	230
	1	The notion of "network"	230
	2	The "coherence" of the Natura 2000 network	231
	III	The Classification of SACs: General Matters	234
	IV	Classification of SACs: Stages of the Procedure	235
	1	First stage: Submission of the sites chosen by the Member States to the Commission	235
	1.1	Designation criteria and biogeographical regions	235
	1.2	Member States' margin of appreciation in the selection of SCIs. Possible reductions in specific cases	236
	1.3	Time of classification: Submission of lists of SCIs to the Commission and information included	237
	1.4	Lack of reference to a Member State's procedure for the selection of SCIs	238
	2	Second stage: Lists of SCIs to be adopted by the Commission in agreement with the Member States. Bilateral consultation and flexibility mechanism in special cases	239
	2.1	Bilateral consultation procedure between the Commission and the Member States	239

2.2	Flexibility in special cases	241
2.3	Legal effect of the approval of the lists of SCIs by the Commission	241
3	Third stage: Final approval of the list of SCIs	242
4	Position of those affected by the adoption of the lists of SCIs	243
4.1	Standing to appeals against the lists of SCIs	243
4.2	The Sahlstedt case	246
V	Declassification of SACs	247
I	General remarks	247
2	Affected areas	247
3	Criteria for declassification	250
4	Level of decision	253
5	Declassification and reduction of SPAs, SCIs and SACs: The relationship between Articles 9 and 6.3 HD	254
CHAPTER 9	Protection of Special Areas of Conservation
I	Introduction	256
II	Management Measures and Protected Sites	257
I	Management	257
2	Planning	260
3	Regulatory, administrative and contractual measures	261
3.1	Regulatory and administrative measures	261
3.2	Contractual measures	262
4	Remarks on ownership rights and Natura 2000 sites	265
4.1	Property law and protection of biodiversity	265
4.2	Ownership rights and the Habitats Directive	269
5	Time for the adoption of the measures required by Article 6(1) HD	272
III	Obligation to Avoid Deterioration and Alterations	273
I	Differences between Article 6(2) HD and Article 4(4) (first sentence) WBD	273
2	Objective of protection and territorial scope	273
3	Measures to be taken by Member States	274
4	Time-frame of Article 6(2) HD	275
5	The meaning of “deterioration” and “alterations”	276
6	The role of the Directive’s objectives in the case of alterations	278
CHAPTER 10	Protection of Natura 2000 Sites: Environmental Impact Assessment
I	Introduction	280
II	The Relationship Between Paragraphs 2 and 3 of Article 6 HD	282
III	Affected Sites	283
IV	Plans, Programmes and Projects	285

I	Projects	285
2	Plans	287
3	Plans or projects not directly related to or necessary for the management of the site	288
V	The Location Criterion	289
VI	Likelihood of Effects	290
VII	Adequate EIA and Site's Conservation Objectives	293
VIII	Content of an "Adequate Assessment"	295
IX	Public Information	299
X	Exceptions to Negative Environmental Assessments: General Issues	299
1	The consideration of alternatives: Principles and case law	299
2	Obligation to take compensation measures	301
2.1	Obligation of compensation and distinction with mitigation measures	301
2.2	Range of compensation measures	305
2.3	The obligation to compensate and its relationship with the exceptions invoked under Article 6(4) HD	307
2.4	Location of compensation measures	307
2.5	Timing of compensation measures	309
2.6	Procedural timing of the notification of compensatory measures	311
2.7	Conservation banks and compensatory measures	312
XI	Exceptions That Can Be Invoked to Carry Out Activities Having a Negative Environmental Assessment	315
1	Introduction	315
2	Non-priority habitats and species	316
3	Priority habitats and species	318
3.1	Health, public safety and positive environmental impact	318
3.2	"Other" imperative reasons of overriding public interest	319
4	Cases covered by the Commission under Article 6(4) (second paragraph) HD	320
4.1	Projects included in trans-European transport networks	321
4.2	Consideration of socio-economic aspects as imperative reasons of overriding public interest	323
4.3	The importance of alternatives and compensation measures in the Commission's opinions	325
4.4	Data on the Commission's opinions under Article 6(4) HD	326
CHAPTER II	Species Protection in the HD
I	General Remarks	330
II	Need For Literal Transposition and Relationship to Prohibitions Set Out in the CCEW	331
III	Strict Protection: Annex IV Species	332

I	System of prohibitions: Species	333
I.1	Fauna species	333
I.2	Flora species	335
I.3	Protection of species not linked to protected areas: The consequences of Case C-103/00, Commission v. Greece	336
2	System of protection: “deliberateness” of acts and the case of legal activities	337
3	Deliberateness and legal activities	339
4	Criminal law protection	343
5	Prohibited means of capture, killing and transport	344
6	Less stringent protection: Annex V HD species. Conditions and Member States’ margin of appreciation	346
7	Promotion of education on the protection of species	346
IV	Derogations From The Prohibitions on Species	347
I	Obligations of the Member States and derogations that may be invoked	347
2	Conditions for the application of the derogations	349
3	Relevant case law: progressive tightening of the conditions of Article 16 HD	350
3.1	Case C-342/05: Conservation status of the species and administrative practices	350
3.1.1	FCS and administrative practice in Finland	351
3.1.2	Hunting as a preventive measure	352
3.1.3	Specimen limits	353
3.2	Case C-674/17, Commission v. Finland : the toughening of the conditions for the application of Article 16 HD	354
3.2.1	Insufficiency of the reasons for granting a derogation	354
3.2.2	The role of conservation status and the precautionary principle	355
4	Reports on the application of Article 16	356
V	Species Introduction	357
I	Invasive Species: Overview	357
2	The case of the WBD and HD	361
3	The case of Regulation 2014/1143, on the prevention and management of the introduction and spread of invasive alien species	363
2.1	Relevant case law on invasive species	365
2.1.1	Protection of native bee species	365
2.1.2	Purported protection of mussels	367
3	Reintroduction of native species from Annex IV	369
CHAPTER 12	Natura 2000 and the Environmental Liability Directive
I	Introduction	372
II	Scope	373
I	Damage	373

CONTENTS

2	Environmental damage: habitats and species, conservation status and potential for damage	373
2.1	Habitats and species	373
2.2	Significant adverse effects	375
2.3	Relationship to other damages	377
2.4	Imminent threat of environmental damage	378
2.5	Activities causing damage or threat of damage	378
3	The operator	378
4	Derogations from the scope of the ELD	379
5	Preventive and remedial measures for habitats and species	381
6	Prevention and remediation costs	383
	Bibliography	386