
Contents

Translator's Introduction	vii
Author's Preface	xxi
Introduction	1
I
Toward a Critical Reconstruction of the Problem Situation
1 The Three Phases of the Explanation-Understanding Controversy	11
2 On the First Phase of the Controversy: The "Interpretive" Geisteswissenschaften	29
3 On the Second Phase of the Controversy: The Neopositivist Account of Scientific Explanation	43
4 The Neo-Wittgensteinian Renewal of the Claim of the Interpretive Social Sciences to Methodological Autonomy	69
II
On the Present Status of the Explanation-Understanding Controversy
1 The Importance of von Wright's Interventionist Theory of Causality in the Context of the Explanation-Understanding Controversy	83

2 Von Wright and His Critics: Questions for the Third Round of the Controversy	106
3 The Ambiguity in von Wright's Neo-Wittgensteinian Strategy	111
4 The Scientific Reinterpretation of "Intentional Explanation" by Critics of the Neo-Wittgensteinian Approach	143
III
Results of the Critical Reconstruction of the Third Round of the Explanation-Understanding Controversy
Introduction to Part III	181
1 Resolution of the Controversy: Forms of Inquiry and Cognitive Interests	184
2 Completion of the System of Knowledge-Constitutive Interests	209
3 The Transformation of Transcendental Philosophy	232
Appendix: Is the Controversy between Explanation and Understanding Obsolete?	243
Notes	251
Index	285