

■ IN BRIEF	6	A gaming blockbuster bust ● Kilauea ● Musk loves Bitcoin
■ OPINION	7	Covid relief: Better than nothing, but more must be done
■ REMARKS	8	You're vulnerable to hackers in ways you can't control

1 BUSINESS	12	The cancellation of Ant's IPO shocked investors, but Jack Ma's comeuppance was years in the making
------------	----	--

2 TECHNOLOGY	18	▼ Opendoor: How to be a hit startup and lose a fortune
--------------	----	--

	19	Biden and China have very different visions of the internet
	21	A miserable year, but not for tech

3 FINANCE	22	Forget the present; for Wall Street the future is now
	24	The rising star helping call the M&A shots at JPMorgan

4 ECONOMICS	26	It's a V-shaped recovery. No, K-shaped. No...
	27	The stimulus deal is too little, too late for many renters
	29	Just how much power should the Fed have in a crisis?

5 POLITICS	30	Job One for climate czar Kerry: Regain the world's trust
	32	How Trump could (still) manipulate census data
	33	Immigrants remain targets in struggling South Africa

■ PURSUITS	55	Instant coffee, matcha, and meals that actually taste good
	58	Little carpets can be big room-brighteners
	60	Thanks to Phillip Sarofim, dune buggies are hot again
	62	Multiplexes, never fear! Wonder Woman's here
	63	Homebodies can wriggle their feet into these beauties

■ LAST THING	64	Livestreaming won't kill theater. It may even help it
--------------	----	---

SPECIAL ISSUE

34

Good Business

34

The world's most loathed industry gave us a vaccine in record time

40

Hunger-conquering World Central Kitchen's recipe for pandemic relief

46

ESG is on the rise, but the idea that profit isn't everything is getting pushback

50

How Hamdi Ulukaya made Chobani a household name and stayed a good guy