

■ IN BRIEF	4	Impeachment 2.0 ● Couche-Tard goes shopping in France
■ OPINION	5	Gina Raimondo will be an excellent commerce secretary
■ AGENDA	5	Netflix roars ● The ECB sets rates ● Inauguration Day
■ REMARKS	6	Business: Sour on Trump but not yet sweet on Biden
1 BUSINESS	8	Nikola could be the future of trucking (or not)
	10	Occidental cleans the air—to pump more oil
2 TECHNOLOGY	12	The insurrection will not be tweeted
	14	Amazon pulls the plug on Parler
	15	From hunting ISIS to tracking right-wing extremists
3 FINANCE	16	Someday soon, Wall Street may run through Miami
	18	▼ In Seattle, a landlord and her tenants struggle to get by

	20	The NYSE fumbles on Chinese stocks
4 ECONOMICS	22	Just what happens when everyone calls in sick?
	23	The trade war numbers don't lie: China won
5 POLITICS	28	The filibuster killed the Senate
	30	Josh Hawley goes from wunderkind to pariah in one day
	30	A closer look at Israel's big lead on Covid vaccinations
■ PURSUITS	51	The negative side of accentuating the positive
	54	WFH is hard. Make working out from home a blast
	56	Time to show your skin a little love—2020 was rough
	58	The “Peloton of boxing”: Contender or palooka?
	59	Be your own barista, no training required
■ LAST THING	60	In China, Gen Z finally learns to chill

FEATURES

32

Elon Loves China, and China Loves Elon

Beijing has given Tesla special treatment. How long can the good times last?

38

Word Up

Spotify reshaped the music business. Now it wants to do the same for podcasts

44

Minnesota Nice (and Smart)

With free, at-home saliva testing, the state is raising the bar