

■ IN BRIEF	8	Covid relief ● A Lula victory ● Harry and Meghan
■ OPINION	9	Give earmarks a chance—just don't call them earmarks
■ AGENDA	9	A year of lockdown ● The Fed sets rates ● Nike earnings
■ REMARKS	10	As SPACs run rampant, their downfall isn't looking pretty
1 BUSINESS	14	Jack Ma's troubles send a warning to tech entrepreneurs
	16	China democratized EVs, and everyone else will follow
2 TECHNOLOGY	18	▼ It carries cargo. But no pilot

	20	Amazon has more than one way to fight unionization
3 FINANCE	24	Why the stock market is doing such strange things
	25	It took Greensill Capital just a week to fall to Earth
	26	To lure investors, Singapore pushes for transparency
4 ECONOMICS	28	Biden's expensive gamble on rethinking industrial policy
	30	Mexico's recovery is running on a U.S. engine
5 POLITICS	33	Big Tech faces tougher antitrust enforcement
	35	How George Mason became the FTC's feeder school

The Equality Issue

- 39 The pandemic was supposed to be a great equalizer. Think again
- 42 Dorothy Brown's career-long effort to expose the racism in the tax code
- 48 The less your home is worth, the more likely you're overcharged for property tax
- 54 The nations where the rich are getting richer
- 56 Globally, LGBTQ acceptance is up—but some countries are sliding backward
- 62 There's big money to be made on social platforms. Black people aren't making it
- 68 Businesses are struggling to step up on diversity, especially in management
- 70 Graduates from India's tech schools are carrying prejudices to Silicon Valley
- 76 Suddenly, every company wants a chief diversity officer