

Table of Contents

Foreword	v
Table of Contents	vii
Introduction
C. Flückiger, G. Wüsten, R.E. Zinbarg, and B.E. Wampold	1
1 Systematic Resource Analysis
C. Flückiger and G. Wüsten	5
1.1 Resource Priming	8
2 Resource-Oriented Dialog Strategies
C. Flückiger, G. Wüsten, and R.E. Zinbarg	11
2.1 Perceiving and Validating Directly Available Resources and Actively Introducing Unused Resources	13
2.2 Verbalizing Resources and Immediately Experiencing Resources	15
2.3 Using Potential Resources and Integrating Motivational Resources	17
2.4 Strengthening Personal Resources and Furthering the Available Resources of the Social Network	19
2.5 Focusing on Problem-Independent Resources and Taking Advantage of Problem-Relevant Resources	21
2.6 Optimizing Usable Resources and Boosting and Maintaining Trainable Resources	23
2.7 Perspectives as Heuristics for Directing Attention	25
2.8 Resource-Orientation – Putting the Cart Before the Horse	26
2.9 Differences in Self- and Other-Perception	28
2.10 Problem Situation and Therapeutic Strategies	29
2.11 Resource-Oriented Strategies and Phases of Therapy	31
2.12 Risks and Side Effects of Resource-Oriented Strategies	33

3 Resource-Activating Structural Interventions

G. Wüsten and C. Flückiger	35
3.1 Life Overview	36
3.2 Genograms and Ecograms from a Resource Perspective	38
3.3 Miracle Questions and Target Visions	41
3.4 Other People as Resource Models	44
3.5 Activating Coping Resources Through Role Reversal	46
3.6 Planning Pleasure	49
3.7 Resource Activation Through Imaginative Procedures	52
3.8 Resource Diary	55
3.9 Differentiating Between Positive Feelings and Moods	56
3.10 Reframing and Normalization	57
Appendix	59
Worksheet 1: Resource Priming	61
Worksheet 2: Resource-Oriented Dialog Strategies – Possible Questions	62
Worksheet 3: Differentiating Positive Feelings and Moods	64
Bibliography	67
Index	69