

Contents

Preface 7

Note with the English edition 10

CHAPTER I

Attitudes to nature

1 The importance of basic attitudes 14

Basic attitudes and paradigms 15

Basic attitudes and social structure 18

2 A closer look at six basic attitudes 23

The despot (model 1) 24

The enlightened ruler (model 2) 31

The steward (model 3) 37

The partner of nature (model 4) 40

The participant with nature (model 5) 50

'Unio Mystica' (model 6) 54

Recapitulation 55

3 Evaluation and definition of position 57

Once again: why focus on basic attitudes? 57

Four propositions 59

Short digression:

the concept of nature in Dutch nature conservation 65-67

Clarification of concepts 65

Connectedness versus identification 66

Self-realisation through connectedness with God 66

Short digression: on the experience of nature in the Netherlands 67-68

3 Christianity and ecological spirituality 68

CHAPTER II

Participation and intrinsic value	71
1 Environmental crisis and separationism	73
Philosophical reflection: from nature to environment	74
Separation between nature and culture	79
2 'Ecologism' as a fundamental alternative	82
Ecological ethics	83
Values of nature: from instrumental to intrinsic	91
3 Intrinsic value of nature	100
Basis and scope of the concept	102
Recognition versus assignment	110
Non-differentiability	115
The importance of 'being human'	124
4 Participating with nature	135
Biological participation	137
Social/cultural participation	138
Short digression: on participatory technology 148-157
Psychical participation	158

CHAPTER III

Ecological metaphysics	163
1 The ecological world view	165
Deep Ecology as a starting point	166
Totality: connectedness or unity?	173
Dynamism	176
Meaning and sense	184

2	Epistemology in the ecological perspective	193
	Nondualism	193
	Personal experience	196
	Corporeality and affectiveness	200
	Short digression:
	on the integration of experiences in piano playing	204-209
	Hermeneutics of nature	214
3	Historical context	219
CHAPTER IV
	Ecological aesthetics	229
1	Introduction	230
2	Aesthetic attitude	237
	Sensuousness	239
	Contemplativity	245
3	Natural reality as aesthetic object	254
	Art as sign of nature	255
	Nature as sign of art	261
	A contextual theory of natural beauty	266
CHAPTER V
	Ecological Spirituality	279
1	Introduction: on spiritual traditions	280
	Short digression: experiencing the sky at night	290-293
2	Ecological spirituality	293
	Clarification of concepts	296
	Connectedness versus identification	302
	Self-realization through connectedness with Gaia	309
	Short digression: on the experience of mountain climbing	315-323
3	Christianity and ecological spirituality	323

CHAPTER VI

Towards a new connection: ecologism as postmodernism 337

- 1 Looking back 338
- 2 On the importance of science 342
- 3 On the two cultures 346
- 4 Constructive postmodernism 357

Bibliography 369

Name Index 383

Subject Index 389

About the author 399