

Contents

	List of Illustrations	vii
	Acknowledgments	ix
	Author's Note	1
1	The Underground Church in China	7
	Historical Background	7
	The Auspicious Beginning of Catholicism in China	10
	The Eighteenth-Century Crisis	13
2	Matteo Ripa's Attempt to Establish a School for Chinese Priests in China	21
	Fr. Matteo Ripa's Spiritual Vision	21
	Ripa's Journey to China	23
	Ripa at the Chinese Court	27
	Ripa's First School for Boys	31
	Opposition to Ripa's School	36
	Ripa Departs Beijing with Five Chinese	40
	The Journey from Guangzhou (Canton) to London and Naples	44
3	Founding of the Chinese College for Priests in Naples	55
	Financial Struggles in Founding the Chinese College	55
	The First Chinese College Graduates Return to China	58
	Problems with Chinese Students in Naples	63
	More Students Arrive from China	66

Lucio Wu as Ripa's "Perpetual Cross to Bear"	71
Lucio's Second Flight and Imprisonment in Castel Sant'Angelo	75
4 Racial and Cultural Tensions between Chinese and European Priests	85
Fr. Filippo Huang in China	85
Huang's Struggles as a Missionary in Northern Shanxi	88
Growing Tensions between Chinese and European Priests	92
Anti-Christian Movement ("Great Persecution") of 1784	100
5 The Emergence of the Underground Church	109
The Underground Church in Japan	109
The Formation of Chinese Jesuit Priests	110
Chinese Priests and Catechists in Sichuan	113
The Formation of Chinese Underground Priests	117
Christian Virgins (Chaste Women) in Sichuan	120
Chinese Priests in Jiangnan	124
6 European and Chinese Forms of Martyrdom	133
Sacrifice and Martyrdom among Chinese Priests and Catechists	133
Indigenous Chinese Catholic Leadership	135
Mendicant Martyrdoms	139
Chinese Christian Martyrdoms	144
Conclusion	151
Bibliography	155
Index	165