

Table of Contents

Introduction	5
1. Voluntary Approaches and Voluntary Environmental Agreements	9
1.1 Definition of Voluntary Approaches and Agreements	10
1.2 Experience of OECD Countries that Can Be Utilized in the Czech Environmental Policy	16
2. Economic and Legal Aspects of Voluntary Environmental Agreements	27
2.1 Social Effectiveness of Voluntary Environmental Agreements	27
2.2 Environmental Agreements and Institutional Economics	35
2.3 Legal Characteristics of Environmental Agreements	39
3. Environmental Agreements: Conflict Resolution and Game Theory Analyses	42
3.1 Conflict Theory and Resolution	42
3.2 Game Theory and Environmental Agreements	44
4. Negotiating Voluntary Agreements: Applying Economic Tools of Environmental Policy	56
4.1 Practical Conditions and Theoretical Overview	56
4.2 Air Pollution in Uhelno nad Labem: Laboratory Economic Experiment	66
4.3 Pollution of Ceska Reka river: Laboratory Economic Experiment	75
5. Voluntary Environmental Agreements in the Czech Republic	79
5.1 Voluntary Approaches: Studies and Analyses	79
5.2 Environmental Agreement on Gradual Reducing of Washing Powders and Their Impact on Environment	83
5.3 Voluntary Agreement on Packages	93
5.4 Prepared Negotiated Voluntary Environmental Agreement on Information	96
6. Environmental Agreements Under Czech Law	98
6.1 Position of Environmental Agreements in Czech Legal Theory	98
6.2 Possibility of Using Existing Private Law Institutions	106
7. Specifics of Environmental Components for Voluntary Agreements in the Czech Republic	113

7.1 Air	114
Environmental Agreements	120
7.2 Water	121
7.3 Soil and Geological Environment	127
7.4 Nature and Landscape.	133
7.5 Physical Fields (Noise and Radon)	137
7.6 Waste and Waste Management	139
8. Economic Sectors: Environmental Status	146
8.1 Industry	146
8.2 Agriculture and Forest Management.	155
8.3 Transport	160
9. Preparation of New Voluntary Environmental Agreements in the Czech Republic	164
9.1 Process Model	165
9.2 Voluntary Agreement between Group of Companies and Ministry of Environment Concerning Decrease of Greenhouse Gas Emissions	179
In Conclusion	193
References and Selected Literature.	197