

Contents

Preface	5
List of tables and figures	9
1. Introduction	11
2. Multi-speed European Union: differentiated integration and spatial development .	23
2.1. Introduction	23
2.2. Clarification of multi-speed development and differentiated integration	25
2.3. Three perspectives regarding the European Union	27
2.4. National and European identifications	32
2.5. Multi-speed and two-speed European Union	40
2.6. Insufficient public support for political deepening and widening	45
2.7. Methodological remarks	54
3. Differentiation in opposing public opinion concerning a two-speed European Union (survey 2006)	61
3.1. Introduction	61
3.2. Differences in opinion supporting or opposing a two-speed European Union .	62
3.3. A negative view of globalisation and post-materialist value orientation	66
3.4. Explaining opposing public opinion concerning a two-speed European Union	71
3.5. Conclusions	76
4. Differentiation in public opinion on future environmental and regional policies of the European Union (surveys 2007 and 2008)	77
4.1. Introduction	77
4.2. Public opinion on future environmental policies	80
4.3. Public opinion on future regional and cohesion policies	82
4.4. Correlations between principal component scores and other variables	84
4.5. Conclusions	88
5. Differentiation in public opinion on regional and local authorities in the European Union (survey 2008)	90
5.1. Introduction	90
5.2. Institutionalisation of the Committee of the Regions	91
5.3. The changing balance between the EU level and the national level	92
5.4. Explaining perceptions of EU, national and regional/local levels	94

5.4.1. Trust in the national level and hesitant trust in the EU level	94
5.4.2. Postulated explanatory model	98
5.5. Conclusions	103
6. Conclusions: ambivalence regarding increasing diversity and multi-speed European Union	105
References	111
Index	120