

INDEX

Introduction	17
I. Social Reforms in Countries of Central and Eastern Europe (Igor Tomeš)	22
1. The communist heritage	23
2. Economic transformation	27
3. Approaches in the nineties	29
4. The changes in the nineties	32
4.1. Tradition and problems	32
4.2. Alternative approaches in the 1990s	34
4.3. Changing concepts in the late 1990s	35
5. Joining the NATO and economic community	35
5.1. Problems at the time of enlargement	36
5.2. Upon accession to the EU – Expectations and reality	36
5.3. Impact of accession on social Europe	37
5.4. The consequences of enlargement	37
6. Lessons learned	38
II. 20 Years after the Fall of the Wall – On the Transformation of Social Security Systems in Central and Eastern Europe (Ulrich Becker)	40
1. Achievements: Transformation process and paths pursued	41
1.1. Issues regarding the transition	41
1.2. Issues concerning the driving forces of this development	42
1.2.1. Transformation and tradition	43
1.2.2. Socio-political deliberations, pragmatism and external advisors	44
2. Intermediate step	45
2.1. Is there a Central and Eastern European model of social security?	45
3. Stocktaking: Analysis from two different angles	48
3.1. Socio-political aspects	48
3.2. European framework	49
3.3. Horizontal questions	51
4. Legal aspects	52
4.1. Rules for the creation of security systems and the equal distribution of social rights	52
4.2. Protection against the reduction of social rights	54
4.3. Law enforcement	54
5. Conclusion	55

III. Social Reforms in Central and Eastern Europe and the European Social Model (Eberhard Eichenhofer)	56
1. Different influences on transformation.....	56
1.1. Rediscovery of an own history	56
1.2. Adapting to an open world economy	57
1.3. Taking part in European integration	57
2. Characteristics of Central European social reforms.....	58
2.1. Coping with legacies of the past.....	58
2.2. Terminating state and introducing market economy	58
2.3. New start in social security.....	58
2.4. A new system of labour – collective bargaining instead of state governance.....	60
2.5. Transformation between economic and social imperatives	60
3. The European social model	61
3.1. Origin, reputation and dimensions of the European social model.....	61
3.2. Europe's common social policy legacy.....	61
3.3. European welfare states under comparison.....	61
3.4. Growing EU law influence.....	62
3.5. Modernising social security.....	63
4. Transition exacerbated social conditions, making fundamental changes imperative.....	63
4.1. Transition – A fundamental re-orientation.....	63
4.2. Transition crisis and social reform	63
4.3. Emerging social reform agenda	64
5. Central Eastern Europe's social reform under the imperatives of the European social model.....	65
5.1. Association with the Central and Eastern European states	65
5.2. Adjusting to the EU acquis led to new social policy orientations	67
5.3. Pension reform in the Central and Eastern European states	68
6. Conclusion.....	69
 IV. Risk Allocation in Labour Law and Social Security in Austria – The Role of Public and Private Institutions (Günther Löschnigg/Nora Melzer-Azodanloo)	 70
1. Financial sources of benefits	71
1.1. Employer	71
1.2. Works Council.....	72
1.3. Private pension systems financed by the employer	72
1.4. Employees.....	73
2. Risk sharing systems.....	73
2.1. Financed by employers Only	73
2.2. Financed by employers and Employees	73

2.3. Financed by general taxation.....	74
2.4. Mixed systems.....	74
3. Labour law	75
3.1. Social partners – Employers	75
3.2. The state	76
3.3. Works council.....	76
4. Social security law	77
4.1. The state, the nine provinces, the cities	77
4.2. Social institutions	77
4.3. Social partners.....	78
5. Current examples for risk allocation	78
5.1. Sick leave and continued payment	78
5.2. Severance pay.....	79
5.3. Minimum security (Mindestsicherung).....	79
6. Tendencies in risk allocation and responses	79
6.1. Tendencies	79
6.2. The discussed measures	80
6.2.1. Value-creation tax	80
6.2.2. Taxes on financial transactions	80
6.2.3. Ecological taxes.....	80
6.2.4. Personal transparency data file (Transferkonto/Transparenzdatenbank)	80
7. Prerequisites for the selection of an adequate institution	81
8. Consequences of the current role allocation	82
V. European Standards of Solidarity in Health Care in Aging Societies: The right to Protection of Health and the Right to Social and Medical Assistance (Andrzej Marian Świątkowski)	83
1. The right to protection of health	83
2. The right to social and medical assistance	85
2.1. The responsibility to provide adequate social and essential medical assistance	85
2.2. The responsibility to treat national and foreign citizens on an equal footing in matters of health and medical assistance	92
3. Conclusions	94
VI. Continuities and Discontinuities in Gender Welfare – State Socialism and Transition (Barbara Havelková)	95
1. Characteristics of gender welfare under state socialism	95
1.1. Modernisation	95
1.2. Drawbacks	97
1.3. Reasons for drawbacks	99

2.	Continuity and change in transition.....	100
2.1.	Drawbacks	103
2.2.	Challenges and suggestions	105
VII.	Equal opportunities in Slovenia and EU anti-discrimination law (Barbara Kresal).....	108
1.	Overview of Slovenian anti-discrimination legislation	109
2.	Interaction between Slovenian and EU law as regards equal opportunities, equal treatment and prohibition of discrimination	111
3.	Equal treatment and equal opportunities in practice?	116
4.	Conclusion.....	117
VIII.	Gender and Ethnicity: The Multiple Dimensions of Discrimination and Social Exclusion (Chiara Crepaldi / Manuela Samek Lodovici / Marcella Corsi)	120
1.	Ethnic minority women: The dimensions of social exclusion.....	121
2.	Legislation and policy responses in European countries.....	124
3.	The multiple disadvantages of Roma minority women.....	127
3.1	The exclusion of Roma communities from education, employment, healthcare and social services	128
3.2.	The multiple discrimination of Roma women.....	130
3.3.	Roma Integration Policies throughout Europe	131
4.	Conclusions	135
IX.	Some of the obstacles and dangers of the free movement of foreigners from countries outside the EU in terms of rights to benefits from the social insurance system (Martin Štefko).....	139
1.	Social rights of foreigners from countries outside the EU	142
2.	Multilateral international treaties.....	143
3.	Bilateral international treaties.....	145
4.	EU Law.....	148
4.1.	Posting and assignment of foreigners from countries outside the EU such as agency workers in the transnational provision of services.....	150
4.2.	Specific approach to a registered partnership in the Czech Republic	153
5.	Social reforms in national legislation with respect to changes in the status of foreigners in the social insurance system.....	154
5.1.	Basic features of the legislation before the revolution in 1989	154
5.2.	A brief excursion into social reforms after 1989	155
6.	Conclusion.....	157
X.	The Introduction of Private Elements in National Social Security and the Role of International Standards (Tineke Dijkhoff).....	160
1.	International social security standards	162

1.1. Conventions of the International Labour Organisation	162
1.2. Instruments of the Council of Europe	163
1.3. Criteria for a solidarity-based social security system	164
1.3.1. Minimum level of protection and common principles.....	131
1.3.2. Financial solidarity.....	132
1.3.3. General responsibility of the state	165
1.3.4. Representation of different interests in the management of the scheme	165
2. Social security reform in the Czech republic and Estonia and the role of international standards	166
2.1. The influence of international standards on the Czech reform process	166
2.1.1. International Labour Organisation	167
2.1.2. Council of Europe	168
2.1.3. The influence of international standards on the Estonian reform process	168
2.1.4. International Labour Organisation	169
2.1.5. Council of Europe and European Union	170
2.2. Outcome of the reforms in view of international standards.....	171
3. Privatisation in view of international standards	172
3.1. The Estonian private pension scheme as a specimen	173
3.2. The Estonian private scheme along the lines of the common principles	174
3.2.1. Financial solidarity.....	174
3.2.2. Responsibility of the state	174
3.2.3. Representation of different interests in the management of the funds.....	175
3.3. Tension between the private scheme and international standards	176
3.3.1. Conclusions on the Estonian case.....	176
3.3.2. Implications for the Czech pension system	177
4. Conclusions	177
XI. The Hungarian Old-age Pension System in the Early 21st century (József Hajdú)	179
1. Old-age protection schemes in Hungary	179
1.1. Financing the Hungarian mandatory pension insurance scheme.....	181
1.2. Liquidation problems	182
2. Detailed description of the pension pillars.....	183
2.1. Means-tested pension annuity (zero pillar).....	183
2.2. The social insurance pension (first pillar)	183
2.3. Plans and transitional provisions to reconstruct the public pension pillar	184
2.4. Mandatory private pension (second pillar).....	185
2.4.1. The underlying motives driving partial privatisation	185
2.4.2. General measures of the funds	185

2.5. Voluntary private pension funds (third pillar)	186
2.6. Pre-retirement savings account (fifth pillar).....	187
2.7. Occupational pension scheme (fourth pillar)	187
3. Most important future measures	188

XII. Conception, Sources and Perspectives of Pension Reform

in the Slovak Republic (Peter Demek)	193
1. Sources of the pension system in Slovakia before reform	194
2. Actual status of the pension system and creation of a multi-pillar pension model	194
3. The Open Method of Coordination (OMC) on pensions: A brief review of its impact on Slovak pension reform	197
3.1. An introduction to the Open Method of Coordination (OMC).....	197
3.2. The Open Method of Coordination on pensions: A 'weak' and 'light' process.....	199
3.3 OMC in the sphere of Slovak pension reform: How to coordinate different pension systems	200
3.4. New perspectives for Slovak pension reform – solving the pension system's risks.....	207
4. Conclusion.....	210

XIII. A New Model of the Social State

or a New Form of Social Model for Europe? (Kristina Koldinská)	213
1. Can a new model for the social state arise from the social reforms in Central and Eastern Europe?.....	214
2. The Communist past.....	216
3. Membership in international organisations	218
4. The European social model and its current outlines.....	220
5. Influence of Central and Eastern Europe on the European social model	228
6. Conclusion.....	230

Bibliography	231
---------------------------	------------